Expand On Jail Proposal

Additional information on the proposed new county jail is provided in a fact sheet prepared by the Pettis County Court released today.

A bond issue for the jail, for $150,000, will be presented to the voters on Nov. 5. The fact sheet puts the cost to taxpayers at 25 cents a year for each $1,000 assessed valuation and 75 cents a year for property assessed at $3,000. The bonds would be retired over 10 years.

Pettis County currently has no jail, as it was closed June 11 by Sheriff Emmett Fairfax. County prisoners are being sent either to the city jail or the Saline County Jail.

A site for the proposed jail will be picked after consultation with city and county planners. The site cannot be acquired until the bonds are passed. The jail will not be built on the courthouse lawn, it was stressed.

The following persons are listed by the court as Citizens For Pettis County Jail:

National Prayer Day Wednesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has proclaimed next Wednesday as a national day of prayer for God's guidance to man.

In accordance with a 1952 congressional resolution, he signed Thursday a proclamation naming Oct. 16 and urged:

"Let us use it to thank God for the blessings of human industry and ingenuity, and to seek His strength, His love and His guidance in the crisis of our spirit."

WEATHER

Fair to partly cloudy with a slow warming trend through Saturday night. Partly cloudy and mild Sunday. Low tonight mid 50s. High Saturday near 80.

The temperature Friday was 47 at 7 a.m., and 67 at noon. Low Thursday night was 47.

Lake of the Ozark stage: 57.2 feet; 2.8 feet below full reservoir; no change.

Sunset Friday will be at 6:41 p.m., sunrise Saturday will be at 7:19 a.m.

Hospital's Manager Says Boiler Sound

Don Feeback, Bothwell Hospital administrator, said Friday that "there was no need to replace the boiler unit, since it is a basically sound piece of equipment," following an explosion about 9 a.m. Thursday which shattered the door and damaged the flue of the unit.

An employee in the maintenance department who was in the boiler room at the time of the explosion sustained minor flash burns, but will be released today, according to Feeback.

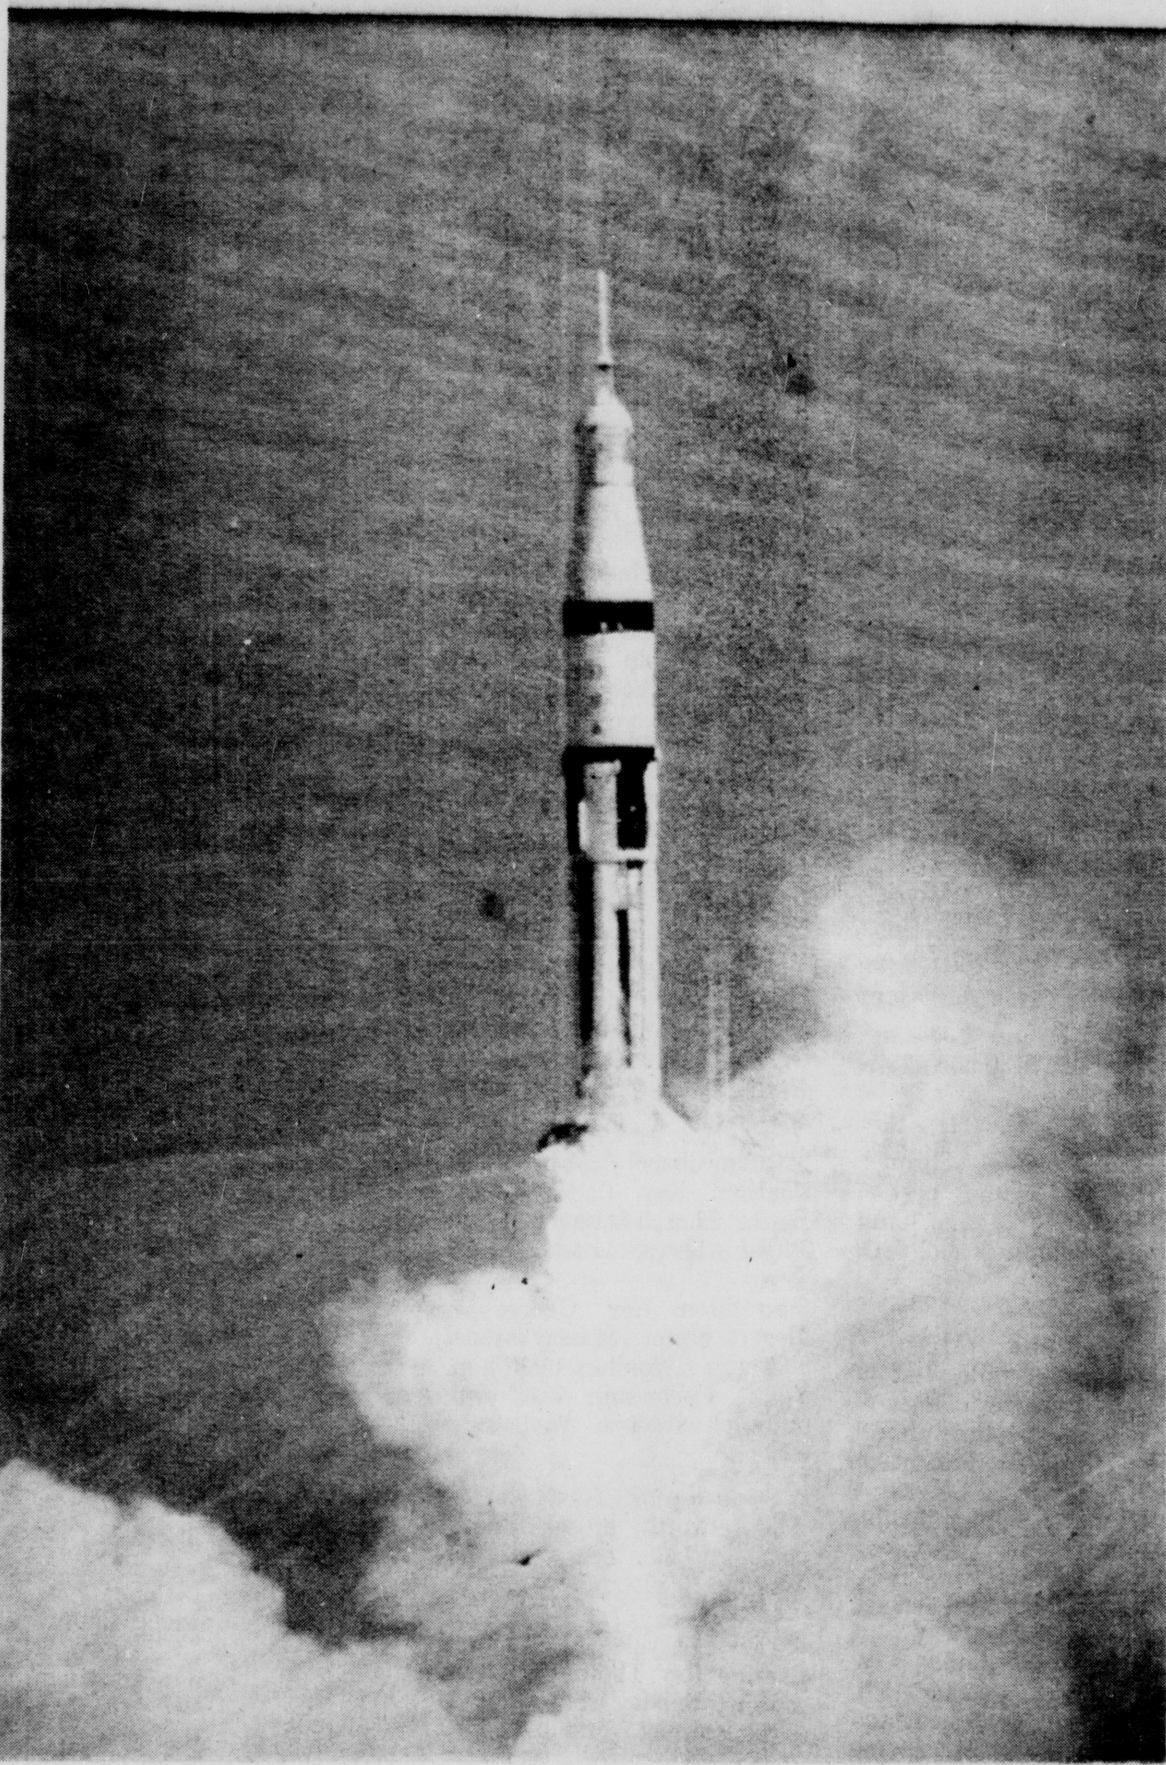

The boiler units, which supply heat to the hospital rooms, were out of commission for about seven hours, but were functioning again this morning.

All four of the boilers in the basement area of the original hospital wing are gas fed. Two are for heating purposes, one for the hospital's laundry and another for the surgical wards.

Feeback said that there was a reserve supply of fuel oil which could be fed into the boilers if it became necessary to do so, but that this would be done on an emergency basis.

Regarding emergency procedures at the hospital in general, Feeback said fire extinguishers are inspected regularly by the Sedalia Fire Department throughout the hospital, and fire drills are also held regularly.

Feeback said that personnel are not advised in advance of a fire drill. In assuring patient safety in emergency situations, Feeback stated that a fire alarm code, which corresponds by numbers, pinpoints the location of any fire or emergency in the building.

Burning Draft Records Results in Convictions

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Seven men and two women, all Roman Catholics, have been convicted of burning draft board records with homemade napalm.

A jury deliberated one hour and 20 minutes Thursday in U.S. District Court, and after the foreman read the guilty verdict to a hushed, crowded courtroom a spectator shouted:

"Members of the jury you have just found Jesus Christ guilty."

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen ordered the courtroom cleared. Spectators moved into the halls, where they began singing, "We Shall Overcome." Outside the building they continued singing and held lighted candles as several dozen helmeted policemen looked on.

The defendants are the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 45, of Baltimore; his brother, the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, 47, formerly an instructor at Cornell University; Thomas P. Lewis, 27, a Baltimore artist; David Darst, 26, a Christian Brother teacher in St. Louis Mo.; John Hogan, 33, a former Maryknoll brother; Thomas Melville, 38, a former Maryknoll priest, and his wife Marjorie, 38, a former nun; George Mische, 31, a peace organizer from Washington, D.C., and Mary Moylan, 32, a nurse.

They were convicted of mutilating and destroying government records, hindering administration of the Selective Service Act and causing injury to government property. The charges stemmed from an incident May 17 at nearby Catonsville, Md.

They had pleaded innocent, and throughout the four-day trial defense attorneys sought to introduce testimony to show that the actions of the defendants were intended as a public protest against the war in Vietnam.

Each defendant could receive a maximum of 18 years in jail and fines of $17,000 on the three counts of the indictment. The judge ordered the cases submitted to a federal probation department for a report before setting a sentencing date. Seven of the nine were freed on bail.

Men Armed With Knife Rob Woman

Sedalia Police report they had "two good suspects" in connection with the armed robbery of Mrs. Cynthia Coulter, 1701 West Ninth, at approximately 10:08 a.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Coulter reported that she had received a telephone call inquiring about the whereabouts of her husband. About 15 minutes later she heard a noise in the front part of her house which is used as an office by her husband, who operates a real estate agency.

The police report indicated that when Mrs. Coulter went to investigate she discovered two men in her husband's office. She told police that the men demanded money, and that when she told them she didn't have any they said they would find something.

One of the men was armed with a switchblade knife. Mrs. Coulter reported that the men took her wrist watch, valued at $100, and a small amount of money from the house after ransacking it.

Area Postmasters Nominated By LBJ

GREEN RIDGE — The nomination of Frederick M. Ream for postmaster here has been sent to the Senate by President Johnson.

Charles H. Pirch has also been nominated as postmaster at Holden, Mo.

Accident Is Fatal To Three

MARSHALL, Mo. (AP) — A car went off highway 41 Thursday night north of Marshall and overturned several times bringing death to three persons including a pregnant woman, her husband and their three-year-old daughter.

The woman was identified by the highway patrol as Mrs.

Betty JoAnn Peel, said to be about six months pregnant.

The husband, Robert Dean Peel Sr., 25, was taken to the Missouri Medical Center at Columbia here he died this morning.

Their daughter, Mary Jo, was dead at the scene of the accident.

Two sons, Ricky, 4, and Robert Jr., 18 months, were taken to the Medical Center with injuries.

It was reported the condition of the two sons, Ricky and Robert, was serious. Robert had received severe head injuries.

The family resided at 731 Odell in Marshall.

The patrol reported the car went off the side of the highway, struck a mail box, veered back across a gravel road and overturned several times before coming to rest against a utility pole.

Apollo Spacecraft Blasted Into Orbit

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts, saying they're "having a ball", got the go-ahead today for two orbits less than an hour after they hurtled into space in the world's largest spacecraft on an 11-day flight.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham reported all was well aboard their 69,000-pound spacecraft.

"We're having a ball," said Schirra, veteran astronaut on his third flight into space. "The windows appear to be almost crystal clear."

Mission Control gave the spacecraft the "go" sign for two orbits as it flashed along at five miles a second more than 140 miles above Carnarvon, Australia. If the flight goes well, Apollo 7 will remain aloft 11 days and travel 4½ million miles through space while completing 163 orbits.

Thousands of people lined Atlantic beaches as the Saturn 1B rocket, the most powerful booster ever used for a U.S. manned flight, slugged the spacecraft into orbit, riding a tail of fire the length of a football field.

The eight first stage engines, generating 1.6 million pounds of thrust—more power than 100 jet fighter planes—ignited at 11:03 a.m. EDT, roared into the crystal blue sky and curved downward.

Schirra said shortly after ignition that the ride "was a little bumpy", but six minutes later he said it was "riding like a dream."

Eisele reported the guidance and navigation system was "go."

Mission Control Center said the mighty booster rocket performed flawlessly during its 10 minutes of powered flight, accelerating the spacecraft to 17,500 miles an hour and drilling it into orbit.

Success of the Apollo 7 flight may open the door for another Apollo crew to orbit the moon in December, a vital step toward landing men on the moon next year.

The spacecraft was to remain mated to the booster second stage, called the S4B, for about three hours, just as it will be on a moon flight.

After two orbits, the Apollo Command and Service module, which holds the crew, will inch forward and separate from the S4B.

The crew then flies in formation with the spent booster for a time before moving 83 miles out in front to get into position for a rendezvous late Saturday.

While attached to the S4B, the spacecraft is 113 feet, 3 inches long and weighs 69,034 pounds.

At separation from the S4B, the 16,000-pound Apollo Command and Service Module will still be larger by two tons than

Schedule In Space Is Busy

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Here are highlights scheduled for the 11-day flight of Apollo 7:

Launch Day
Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham blast off at 11 a.m. EDT into oval-shaped earth orbit ranging from 142 to 176 miles high. About three hours after liftoff, crew uses the orbiting upper stage of Apollo 7's Saturn 1B booster rocket to rehearse docking techniques to be done when later Apollo craft fly to the moon.

Second Day
After separating from the orbiting rocket stage to a distance of 83 miles, Apollo 7's main 21,000-pound-thrust engine is triggered two times, about 26 and 28 hours after liftoff, to rendezvous with the booster, simulating how an Apollo spaceship in lunar orbit might rescue astronauts in a moon-landing craft stranded in the wrong orbit around the moon.

Third Day
Apollo 7 tracks orbiting rocket from distances up to 370 miles to test spaceship's ability to line up a rendezvous target. Astronauts use sextant to see how well they can navigate by stars. They later photograph weather and terrain features on earth.

Fourth Day
Crew uses landmarks on earth to see if they can calculate their orbit, continue star-sighting tests and photograph more land and weather features. Main Apollo engine ignited third time to adjust orbit so astronauts can (See SCHEDULE, Page 4.)

King Blasts Democrats For Creating 'Dynasty'

The Democratic administration in Jefferson City is building a "political dynasty" at the expense of the state's welfare, Rep. R. J. "Bus" King, Missouri House minority leader, told about 150 Pettis County Republicans Thursday night at a dinner at Sacred Heart School cafeteria.

King charged that the Democrats have created over 4,800 new patronage jobs in the state which deprive Missouri of needed resources.

"Missouri voters need a true picture of what is happening in their state and Republicans are showing them," King said.

King was introduced by Miss Hazel Palmer.

Sen. John Ryan of Sedalia said the Republicans must cut the Democratic margin in the Missouri General Assembly to insure the passage of "progressive legislation."

Henry Lamm, presiding judge of the Pettis County Court, stressed the need for a new county jail, and urged Republicans to support the county jail bond issue, which will be on the Nov. 5 ballot.

Speaking on behalf of the candidacy of Rep. Tom Curtis, who is running for the U.S. Senate, was Bill Hyatt. Hyatt compared Curtis' record of 15 years in the House of Representatives with that of his opponent, Tom Eagleton, and said Curtis must be elected "for the good of the whole state."

John Swezy, program chairman, presided. J. L. Reine, head of the Pettis County Farmers For Roos Committee, provided the meat at the covered dish dinner.

Case of the Cougar Considered by Judge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — William and Cheryl Howey say their pet cougar, Tiberius, is defanged, declawed, their house pet since he was only 5 months old, "tame as a kitten and wouldn't hurt anyone." They want permission to keep him.

But 43 neighbors have signed a petition saying he scares them, makes noise and reduces property values.

The case came up before the county zoning board Thursday. "Suppose the cat escaped and somebody ran into it at midnight," said Commissioner Louis Kanaster. "they might die of a heart attack."

His colleagues took the matter under advisement.

Eagleton Discusses Issues Here

Lt. Gov. Tom Eagleton, who was in Sedalia briefly Thursday to campaign for election to the U.S. Senate, held a press conference at Democratic headquarters, where he touched on several national issues.

On law and order he noted that persons caught violating the law should be punished, but officials should investigate the conditions that led to the violations. He noted that job training and education would go a long way in preventing crime in the streets, and that this will cost a lot of money. He mentioned tax deduction for funds used in job training as one avenue of approach to the subject.

Governor Warren Hearnes acted firmly and fairly in the Kansas City situation, Eagleton said, and this action kept a bad situation from becoming worse. Better training for police officers coupled with things learned since the Watts rioting add considerably to the ability of law enforcement officers to cope with such situations, he said.

On foreign policy Eagleton said we are not limitless in money and manpower, nor are we willing to act unilaterally in coping with foreign affairs such as Czechoslovakia. Action should be taken through the UN to prevent such occurrences, he said.

On the Wallace matter, he said he admits the third party candidate is keeping a lot of politicians, "including myself," awake nights wondering what effect he will have on the national political scene. "This is the big imponderable of this election. No one can predict how the voters will vote," he said. He added that he is reasonably sure Missouri will go Democratic, however.

Our Community Churches

Smithton United Methodist

The Smithton United Methodist Church had its beginning in 1868 with two different churches—one German speaking and one English. The present structure was built in 1925;
however the congregation was organized in 1868. The Centennial of the church will be observed on Oct. 13. The Rev. George E. Meyer is the pastor of the congregation.

Newspaper Is Attacked By Bishop

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Condemning the National Catholic Reporter as a "poisonous publication," a bishop demanded Thursday that the word "Catholic" be removed from its name. The national independent newspaper, claiming 81,000 circulation, is published weekly in Kansas City.

"Inasmuch as the National Catholic Reporter does not reflect the teaching of the church, but on the contrary, has openly and deliberately opposed this teaching, I ask the editors in all honesty to drop the term 'Catholic' from their masthead," said the Most Rev. Charles H. Helmsing, bishop of the Kansas City — St. Joseph diocese.

Robert G. Hoyt, editor of the newspaper, said the request "is a decision for the board of directors." He made no other comment.

The bishop said he had tried, in private meetings with the editors, to "guide them on a responsible course," but got no results. He said the type of reporting, editorializing and ridiculing present in the newspaper were making it difficult to teach the ideals of Christ.

"In fairness to our Catholic people," Bishop Helmsing said, "I hereby issue an official condemnation of the National Catholic Reporter. Furthermore, I send this communication to my brother bishops, and make known to the priests, religious and laity of the nation my views on the poisonous character of this publication."

Four Stamps Sell for $50,853

BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — A block of four Newfoundland postage stamps with an upside-down imprint fetched $50,853 at a rare stamp auction here. The stamps, inscribed "Labrador the Land of Gold," commemorated the 1935 Rome-New York flight of Italian aviator Italo Balbo in an overprint. An American — unidentified — bought them. A 24-cent American airplane stamp of 1918 with an inverted center brought $22,990.

Viking Explorer Honored in Stamp

SEATTLE (AP) — Ralph W. Nicholson, assistant postmaster general, dedicated a six-cent commemorative stamp Wednesday honoring Viking explorer Leif Erickson.

The post office will print 120 million of the stamps. The issuance was timed to coincide with what is believed the 1,000th anniversary of Erickson's birth. The exact date is now known.

Erickson sailed to the North American continent about 1,000 A.D. and is believed to have landed in the northern part of Newfoundland.

The Church in the Modern World

By Rev. Ron Hoenninger, C.P.P.S. (Sacred Heart)

The Church is not a building. The Church is a bunch of people. Sometimes this is an asset and at other times it would appear to be a liability. But the role of the people is the same. They are still a minority serving a majority. They exist for the world — because they have the gift and the responsibility of seeing and understanding the world and its people as they are: with understanding and openness, with decent criticism and freedom, with generosity and charity. They are called to be living witnesses to Christ and in this way proclaim his Gospel.

The role of the Church in the changing world is faced with the same problem as the world: the division in the lives of its members between principle and practice. The spirit of the Church is a non-entity for many of its members. This has created the present problem with change. The Church is a continuing event that is being accomplished in history and through people. It is not something signed, sealed and delivered to us by God; rather it is for all who belong to a continuing task. "Go and teach" . . . "go" means movement, thrust. It means risk and insecurity. "Teach" means that we speak, not just mouth tired formulae. Bring light — do not condemn darkness. Yet there are believers who do not believe! There is probably nothing more disconcerting in the present crises that are arising everywhere than the churchgoers who are claiming "heresy" at every turn. Not only are they playing God's role (and playing it poorly) but they are trying to place back into neat, vacuum-packed packages the one thing we do know so very clearly: truth is an on-going process.

The question is then: by what criterion are we to judge that the Church is headed in the right direction? Is it enough to answer that the Church is on the right path so long as it adapts itself to the present? Evidently not, for that could mean adapting itself to the evil, the anti-God elements, the indifference in the world. What Paul says in Romans still applies: "Do not be conformed to this world but be transformed by the renewal of your mind, that you may prove what is the will of God, what is good and acceptable (to God) and perfect." Can we say the Church is on the right path so long as it holds fast to the past? Again, evidently not, for that could mean ignoring what is good and acceptable and perfect, holding to what has gone simply because to do so is convenient, less disruptive. Clinging tenaciously to the past in this way is no less dangerous than a misdirected adaptation to the present. It is even possible that abiding by something good could be wrong, for instance when man's concerns are given priority over God's, when human tradition is preferred to God's word. Christ was aware of man's reluctance to forego his own tradition when he quoted Isaiah's warning. (Mk. 7:6f)

We can see that mere adaptation to the present is inadequate because it leads to modernism, clinging to the past is no better, for it leads to traditionalism. And so again we ask: How do we know when the Church is on the right path? We know this when the people who go to church are on the right path because the Gospel way of life has become a reality in their lives instead of a set of practices or beliefs. We know this when the lives of people make evident the fact that the hopes and desires of man should be directed to man and God's love for their fellow man. We know this not because of what people speak but because of the way they act. Only then will God's people fulfill their role of leading the Church, the world, and one another into a new life, new freedom, and a new future.

Has Roses For His Hecklers

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — George C. Wallace came to the Duluth Arena, which 6,350 people filled to capacity Thursday night, with a bouquet of roses to toss to hecklers.

But there was no heckling.

About 50 or 100 persons walked out early in his speech without fuss. The rest of the audience applauded politely, and at times enthusiastically, but were markedly more restrained than other audiences in recent days.

Consequently, when Wallace came to his customary criticism of the press and singled out his favorite target, the New York Times, an aide delivered a single rose to correspondent Martin Waldron who responded with a bow.

Aboard his airplane enroute to Duluth, Wallace strolled the aisle making jokes with the reporters accompanying him.

"You boys better start writing some good things about me," he said, "I look like I'm going to make it."

Predicting how he thought press reaction to his candidacy would change in the 3½ weeks remaining until election day, Wallace quipped: "It's like when Napoleon escaped from Elba. The first headlines said, 'The beast has escaped, he's in Granada.' But by the time he got to Paris the headlines were, 'Our great emperor has returned.'"

To typically responsive crowds of 4,000 at the courthouse in Evansville, Ind., and 6,000 to 7,000 at the City Hall in Peoria, Ill., Wallace repeated his charge that the polls were "rigged" in favor of his Republican opponent, Richard M. Nixon.

In more weighty portions of his speeches in both cities he stressed his pledge to end the Vietnam war militarily with conventional weapons if peace talks fail. In Evansville he announced he would send his running mate, Curtis E. LeMay, the former Air Force chief of staff, on a four-day fact-finding trip to Vietnam.

He told his Peoria audience: "If you're strong, you can go to the conference table; if you're weak, you can be blackmailed."

Apollo

any flown by the Russians and 12 tons larger than the two-man Gemini spacecraft.

Among those watching the spectacular liftoff of America's first manned flight in nearly two years was Cunningham's wife, Lo Ella. She and their two children, Brian, 8, and Kimberly, 5, watched from a boat floating on a river near Cape Kennedy.

The families of Schirra and Eisele watched on television at their homes near the Manned Spacecraft in Houston, Tex.

The countdown to launch of the marathon flight was near flawless. A brief hold was called at 6:15 to permit proper chill down of the second stage rocket engines, but the problem was quickly corrected.

Schirra, 45, the oldest man to fly into space and the first ticked to a third trip: Eisele and Cunningham essentially completed their training several days ago and have been relaxing for the most part as launch teams prepared their rocket and spacecraft for America's first man-in-space flight in 23 months.

Their job will be to circle the earth 163 times in 10 days, 20 hours, and 9 minutes to check out the complex systems in the Apollo craft. It has nearly two million functioning parts—compared to about 2,000 for an automobile.

"One of the prime requisites of this flight," Cunningham said, "is to come back with the feeling that all of the spacecraft systems are capable of supporting a flight duration that would take you to the moon and back."

Project officials admit the flight may not go the full route because of the complexity of the equipment.

"Our most important learning for this flight is to determine how the spacecraft lasts," said Glynn Lunney, the flight director. "We can gain just about every systems objective in the first three or four days if an equipment problem requires the mission to be terminated early."

During the flight, the astronauts are to keep watch over such key systems as guidance and navigation, electrical, communications, environmental control, maneuvering engines and the main spacecraft engines.

"In the early stages, I'll keep my eye on the life support system, because it keeps us alive, and the fuel cell electrical system because it keeps the spacecraft alive," said Cunningham, who is the crew systems expert.

Schirra says he's too old to wait two or three years for another flight, and that this will be his last space trip. The veteran of Mercury and Gemini missions calls Apollo 7 "the most ambitious undertaking yet. If we accomplish what we start out to do we can be more adventurous on subsequent flights."

One adventure the National Aeronautics and Space Administration has in mind is a moon orbit flight by the Apollo 8 crew about Christmastime. Apollo 8, commanded by Air Force Col. Frank Borman, presently is scheduled as an earth orbit flight utilizing the gigantic Saturn 5 moon rocket. A decision whether to switch to a lunar orbit trip will be made after the results of Apollo 7 have been evaluated.

Dr. Wernher Von Braun, director of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center which developed the Saturn rockets, said: "No one can say today whether Apollo 8 will go around the moon. We'd all be eager, including the astronauts, to go all out next time. But whether it is prudent remains to be seen. Apollo 7 could be a flawless flight, but something like the environmental control system might leave something desired for a long flight to the moon."

If Borman's team is assigned to orbit the moon, it would be an eight day flight in which they would attempt to orbit the moon 10 times, approaching as close as 69 miles.

Two Topics At Meeting Of Kiwanis

Sedalia Kiwanis had a double-barreled program at its meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

A fellow member, Jack Spilker, manager of the Sedalia district, Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., gave an illustrated talk on the development of the telephone system since its invention in 1876 by Alexander Graham Bell; and Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, spoke briefly concerning the favorable climate for industrial development in Sedalia and Pettis County.

Program Chairman Kimball L. Iman presented Spilker. President William Dugan introduced Lt. Gov. Eagleton.

Invocation was by Robert Horton. Singing was led by Abe Rosenthal with Mrs. Lillian Maynard accompanist. James Giokaris, immediate past president, was introduced at the head table as Kiwanian of the Week.

Guests were: Past President Mike Giokaris of Raytown; William Hall and James Buckley with Arthur Morgan; Roy Cable, new manager of the Goodyear store, with Jack Spilker; George Chase, Chattanooga, Tenn., with Charles Fredrickson; Warren Pometere, Jefferson City, Vaughn Hart and David Windsor with Wendell Smith; Lt. ## Miller Puts Emphasis On Two Parties

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — An auditorium jammed with more than 1,600 educators from the Central Missouri region heard William E. Miller, 1964 Republican vice presidential candidate, today stress the importance of the two-party system.

Miller told the educators "to remember that the two-party system is important because under our current electoral college system 20 percent of the voting public could run the country."

And, he continued, "it is possible under the current system that this country could have a president who was not even represented on the ballot."

He also reminded the teachers of the enormous influence they have over young people and in shaping their attitudes toward responsibilities under the democratic system of government.

Miller's appearance was as a keynote speaker before the Central Missouri Teachers Association.

Also on the program at Central Missouri State College was the school's award for distinguished service to education to Russell J. Weish. The award went to Welsh in recognition of his 25 years as principal of Clinton High School and a career of 46 years in various Missouri schools as teacher, coach, superintendent and principal.

Mrs. Schirra Knows How Long the Wait Can Last

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — On the night before her husband is rocketed into space, Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Jr. always sleeps well. "It's the night before the night before that is the restless one," she has said.

Josephine Schirra has had more of these than any of the other astronaut wives. Wally was in an October 1962 Mercury flight. And in December 1965 commanded the two-man Gemini 4 that achieved the first American rendezvous with another manned spacecraft.

Mrs. Schirra said little as she prepared for her third night before—this time, Apollo 7. She obliged a photographer by going out and raking leaves with the help of her 11-year-old daughter Suzanne, but her heart obviously wasn't in it.

Most of the friends who helped her wait out the Gemini launch planned to be at the Schirras' home at Timber Cove near the Manned Spacecraft Center today.

In 1965 Marge Slayton, wife of Donald K. Slayton, director of flight crew operations, arrived in a long flannel granny gown, old-fashioned night cap, and a bottle of champagne—a successful scheme to break the tension. Marge was expected to be one of those on hand today.

Also expected were the wives of astronauts—or former astronauts—John J. Glenn Jr., L. Gordon Cooper and Alan B. Shepard Jr. Trudy Cooper and Louise Shepard were there three years ago, too.

Walter M. Schirra III, who was 12 when his father went up in the Mercury capsule, now is at Stanford University and will wait out the launch there. But Mrs. James Pickett of Arlington, Va., Mrs. Schirra's sister, will be at the Schirra home.

The wives of the two other astronauts—Air Force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham—were more prone to night-before jitters. This is the first time into space for their husbands.

The Eiseles live in El Lago, not far from the Schirras. Harriet Eisele planned to watch the launch on television with 14-year-old Melinda, 14, Donn 12, and Jon J., 12. The older children were excused from school.

Others invited to the Eisele home were the wives of astronauts John W. Young and Thomas P. Stafford; their minister at Seabrook Methodist Church, the Rev. Bob Parrott and his wife; and Mrs. Eisele's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hamilton of Gnadenhutten, Ohio.

Lo Ella Cunningham was farthest from the eyes of the public. She and her children, Brian, 8, and Kimberly, 5, were on a boat in a river near Cape Kennedy. Television sets were on board as a backstop—but she hoped to get a good view of the actual launch.

Mrs. Cunningham, who flew to the cape Wednesday night for a final visit with her husband, planned to return to their home near here tonight.

There are loudspeakers in each astronaut's home tied to the global network that tracks the space flight—so each wife can hear her husband go about his routine. And each home has three television sets.

Escaped From Viet Cong Camp

BAN ME THUOT, Vietnam (AP) — A U.S. Army sergeant missing for 15 days made his way back to allied lines and told of escaping from North Vietnamese in a 10-day flight through Cambodia and South Vietnam's central highlands, military sources reported today.

They said Sgt. Buddy Wright, of Wellston, Ohio, stumbled into a South Vietnamese army camp last Sunday pointing to his stomach and saying, "Chop chop, chop chop," which means food to the Vietnamese.

The sources said Wright gave this account of his capture and escape:

He became separated from his platoon Sept. 22 and North Vietnamese seized him southwest of the Duc Lap Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border, 125 miles north of Saigon.

He said the North Vietnamese troops marched him west for two days so he thought he was in Cambodia. They did not mistreat him, but took his wallet, identity tag and boots to prevent him from escaping.

North Vietnamese interrogators asked him the name of his unit, which is the 1st Battalion, 22nd Infantry, 4th Division. But Wright told him he did not know.

The interrogators asked him what kind of a noncommissioned officer didn't even know his unit.

He said he was a very stupid NCO.

The North Vietnamese had an AK47 assault rifle pointed at him during the interrogation. At night, a guard came by every 30 minutes and pointed a light at him.

During his fifth night of captivity, Wright escaped. He ran all night and all the next day. The North Vietnamese chased him.

"When I saw the North Vietnamese my first thought was, 'I am dead,'" Wright later told other American soldiers. "When they didn't kill me, my will to survive came pretty strong and I decided I will try hard to escape. When I first escaped, I felt I could make it."

"I thought I was directly west of Duc Lap and had to run east. After two days I became weak and I was not quite sure where I was. I thought I was losing my way and I was scared."

On the second day of his escape, he could see North Vietnamese troops still looking for him. He hid eight hours then struck out again when a heavy rain began to fall.

On the night of Oct. 5, he saw a fire and figured it was in a South Vietnamese camp. He was not sure, so he decided to wait until daybreak.

At first light, he saw a soldier with an M16 rifle, the standard allied weapon. Wright walked toward him.

The soldier carried Wright to a hill the South Vietnamese troops were occupying. American advisers called a helicopter which took Wright to Duc Lap, then to the 2nd Brigade of the 4th Infantry Division at Ban Me Thuot.

Capt. Daniel H. Trachtenberg of Philadelphia, Pa., a physician who examined Wright at Ban Me Thuot, said, "Sgt. Wright was in amazing good condition for what he had been through."

Wright lost several pounds and had lacerations of his feet, legs and arms which were slightly infected. His feet also were swollen.

During his flight to freedom, Wright survived on nuts and wild berries. While a prisoner, the North Vietnamese fed him rice.

Worried About Forced Landings

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — "What we are afraid of," said an airline official in London, "is that some day some silly so-and-so will poke a gun into the back of the neck of a pilot and order him into an airport that he doesn't know, or that isn't equipped to handle his plane. He'll be forced to risk a landing, plunk down his plane and crash."

He was talking about the score of hijackings or attempted hijackings that have taken place this year.

So far there have been no proven fatalities on Western commercial airlines as a result of hijackings. All planes seized on scheduled flights have been returned. But pilots, airline officials, lawyers, insurance specialists, governments and others concerned with civil aviation are searching for a solution to the growing problem.

The consensus among them is that the only defense devised so far is a piece of paper—an international convention pledging nations to return hijacked planes and the people aboard, and to assist where possible in prosecuting the hijacker.

Progress is slow. The convention was drafted five years ago at an international meeting in Tokyo. Prompted by this summer's hijacking of an Israeli plane, the September meeting of the International Civil Aviation Organization urged its member nations to ratify the convention and bring it into force. The United States promised to do so by the end of the year. Cuba, the frequent destination of hijackers, supported the plan.

The International Federation of Airline Pilots Associations, based in London, wants an even stronger agreement to permit prosecution under something like the maritime piracy laws. This seems unlikely and might not do much good. The U.S. Congress applied the piracy laws to aircraft hijacks in 1961, but aerial pirates usually flee to politically friendly states and are not extradited.

Although hijacking has overtones of piracy, it is something new. The crime itself has no precise international definition. It usually lacks the element of outright robbery that characterized pirates seeking plunder. Most hijackers simply want to get from one point to another. They cannot sell a stolen commercial airliner.

This point was brought home to the Arabs who hijacked the Israeli plane in July and ordered the crew to fly it to Algiers.

Underwriters at Lloyds, where much of the world's airline insurance is written, passed the word to Algeria that the Israelis would get a new plane for their insurance money anyway.

If anyone had tried to use the 707 internationally it might have been seized by court order at its first port of call. Eventually the Israelis got it back.

The problems of punishing hijackers are clouded by the legal concept of territoriality—which means that states punish crimes taking place on their own territory. Hijacking often takes place over international waters. The hijacker soon leaves the flying piece of territory on which he commits his crime.

Under extradition laws, his crime—often defined as endangering the safety of a flight or only a simple assault—may not be regarded as serious enough to warrant his return home. Cuban officials have refused to discuss what happened to the hijackers who flew there.

Washington, D.C., has two outstanding carillons, the 53-bell carillon at the Washington Cathedral and the Netherlands Carillon which rings across the Potomac in Arlington, Va.

Wally's Age Does Not Show Easily

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — There are very few ways that Wally Schirra shows his age. One is the fact that he has an 18-year-old son.

Another is his birth certificate. That document shows that Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. was born on March 12, 1923, in Hackensack, N.J. What it doesn't say is that at 45 Schirra becomes the oldest man ever to fly into space.

In what would seem to be a young man's game, Schirra looks the part of the command pilot of Apollo 7. He has crammed more harrowing experiences into his 45 years than most men meet in a lifetime. He was a jet fighter-bomber pilot in the Korean War, racking up 90 missions. He helped develop the lethal air-to-air Sidewinder missile, a heat-seeking explosive that could be as hazardous to the firer as it was to the target.

He has test piloted a number of Navy jets, logging 3,300 hours in jets and 4,300 in all types of aircraft. He was a fighter pilot on the USS Lexington in the Pacific.

One of the original seven astronauts, only he and Air Force Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. are still flight rated.

Schirra logged nine hours and 13 minutes in space aboard his Sigma 7 Mercury spaceship, Oct. 3, 1962. He was 39 then.

In December 1965, he teamed with Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford in Gemini 6 for another 26 hours in space.

With the Apollo 7 flight, he becomes the most experienced spaceman alive, American or Russian. It will be his third blast-off, and, he has decided, his last.

"I think when I find I'm just too plain tired, when I can't keep up the pace, this very rapid pace, then I would personally consider it . . . There is some point in your life, and a man can judge fairly well, if he's honest with himself. And this is much too important a business for me to just have personal pride and keep on going until I might stumble," he said.

"I'll have to learn when to hang up my spurs." Schirra is the father of two children, a veteran of 27 years of naval service beginning with the U.S. Naval Academy at 18. He has won three Distinguished Flying Crosses, two Air Medals, two space agency Distinguished Service Medals and one Exceptional Service Medal. He has a shelf full of other air trophies and awards.

Censorship Is Out As A Weapon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office has abandoned censorship as a weapon in the war against smut and is training its guns only on dealers who mail pornography to people who complain.

Main goal of this new strategy, says Chief Postal Inspector Harry B. Montague, is to keep advertisements for smut out of the hands of children and young people.

Montague indicates the heat is off consenting individuals who use the mails to exchange obscene photographs and reading matter.

Montague said in an interview that since 1957, the courts and the Justice Department have hindered the Post Office in its fight against pornography, and battle lines had to be redrawn.

Montague, chief inspector since 1961, now largely relies on individual protests from the public.

He and the 1,080 "Post Office policemen" across the nation have been helped by a six-month old federal antipandering law.

Acting under this statute, the Post Office has received since April nearly 75,000 complaints about material which recipients said they'd received through the mails and which was "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

The new law makes it possible for individuals to demand that pornography peddlers be ordered to remove their name from any mailing list the peddler owns or controls.

Violations are referred to the Justice Department which can apply to federal courts to force compliance with the law.

Postmortem on a Furnace

Initial reactions to the explosion in the boiler room of Bothwell Memorial Hospital Thursday morning bordered on incredulity. How can such a potential calamity occur in a public institution where state inspection regulations should be enforced with as much diligence as applied to private businesses.

The simple answer is that malfunctions of regulating devices either gas, electric or both do occur, sometimes with disastrous consequences despite inspections.

However, no one should discount the importance of regular inspection of heating systems either in public buildings, private businesses or in homes. If any obvious defects are detected they should be corrected at once and recommendations for repairs followed implicitly.

Although an idle heating system is checked during the summer months, it is common sense not only to keep an eye on it but also give it a nose sniff occasionally during months the furnace is operating.

But even the sniffer had better be cautious. A neighbor back east had himself blown to kingdom come checking a furnace while dangling a lighted ciragette in his mouth.

Collectively there must have been a lot of lucky Irish influence among the patients and personnel in Bothwell Hospital when the explosion of sonic boom proportions occurred. Damage was minimal considering what could have happened.

In the aftermath of this disturbing incident, the hospital's Board of Trustees will conduct a diligent inquiry to determine, if possible, what contributing factors there were that might have caused the explosion. A postmortem over the 43-years-old coal furnace converted to gas ten years ago may suggest that the time has come to bury it.

After the Board of Trustees determines the cause and effect of the explosion and what it proposes to do about the blasted, old heating system, Sedalia citizens anticipate hearing about all the details at an early date.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nixon Speaks on Behalf of Clients

DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON
WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon has made an unusual campaign statement which has the earmarks of promoting the cause of important clients of his New York law firm, Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie, Alexander and Mitchell.

The statement opposes a trucking bill now before Congress which would increase truck weights and sizes on interstate highways. While there has been considerable opposition to this bill, the unique aspect of Mr. Nixon's statement is that he has taken such few stands on other issues during the current campaign. His law firm, however, has been paid $838,380 by the railroads and the railroads are vigorously opposed to increasing truck weights and sizes.

The facts regarding Nixon's stand on the trucking bill could be very important and the public is entitled to know about them.

For four years Vice President Humphrey has constantly been in the public eye and the newspapers have watched everything he has done. Likewise with George Wallace. For the past six years he was either Governor of Alabama and subject to daily press scrutiny or was assistant governor and equally in the limelight.

Nixon, however, has been partially out of the public limelight; at least has not been subject to intense newspaper scrutiny since he ran for Governor of California in 1962, at which time he became very violent toward the press.

Regardless of this, the press has an obligation to focus attention on Nixon's legal and other activities, including his law practice.

His law firm represents two railroads, the Delaware and Hudson, and the Missouri-Kansas Interstate Commerce Commission show that during three years, 1965-67, the Nixon law firm received $499,794 from the Delaware and Hudson and $338,586 from Missouri-Kansas Railroad. Even on Wall Street these fees are not considered chicken feed.

Ducking Other Issues —
During the current campaign Nixon has refused to take a stand on such important issues as the war in Vietnam and the qualifications of Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice. Nevertheless on Sept. 16 he issued a statement from his traveling headquarters in California opposing this relatively unimportant trucking bill which had been vigorously opposed by the railroads.

"This proposal," Nixon said, "raises serious issues, including the safety and convenience of the morning public. Questions remain about the extent to which greater truck size and weight would impose additional wear and tear on a road network."

"I believe these matters are so important to so many of our people that I favor postponement of action on the bill now before the House."

"As president I would want this entire matter most carefully reconsidered. I would direct the Secretary of Transportation to take a hard new look to make certain that the interest of the traveling public and also the life of our highways are fully protected as we facilitate the vital movement of goods in the nation's commerce."

It is considered significant that several members of Nixon's law firm are very closely associated with his campaign. Two of his partners, Leonard Garment and John N. Mitchell, are with him

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
A 160-acre farm one and three-fourths mile north of Hughesville belonging to Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Smith of Ottoville was sold privately by Kemp Hieronymus to C. H. Wacker of Colorado. The farm brought $60 per acre. Recently Mr. Wacker purchased the Charles Lower farm east of Hughesville.

FORTY YEARS AGO
Mrs. Paul Tredway and sister, Miss Kitty Allen, and Paul Tredway, Jr., left for St. Louis where they will join Mr. Tredway and make their home there. Mr. Tredway is general foreman of the Missouri Pacific shops in St. Louis having been transferred from Sedalia several months ago.

NINETY YEARS AGO
The wind on Thursday night wafted a number of regular old Kansas grasshoppers to Sedalia. They were scattered all over town yesterday. According to the Lexington Register, the Sedalia Democrat is a good newspaper, but the foreman exercises but little judgment in making up the local page. Yaas, thank you. You see, we didn't want to adopt any particular style until we had heard from the Register as to the best way to make up a local page.

constantly. How much they had to do with his unusual statement could not be ascertained.

However, the public has a right to know to what extent Nixon's law firm is going to dictate policy when and if he becomes president, as it appears to be doing while he is a candidate.

Note: After Sen. John Bricker of Ohio ran for vice president on the Republican ticket in 1944, this column revealed that his law firm was receiving a retainer of $30,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad and that Bricker, as Chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, was putting across legislation for the railroads. After this was published Bricker was defeated by Sen. Steve Young, Democrat, partly because of this conflict of interest.

— The Day JFK Was Shot —
Author Jim Bishop, who is gathering research for a book to be called "The Day President Kennedy Was Shot," stopped by the Bethesda Naval Hospital the other day for a look at the autopsy room.

The visit unsettled junior officers who scurried around with his request. Bishop, who also wrote "The Day Lincoln Was Shot" and "The Day Christ Died," merely wanted to glance around the room so he could write a firsthand description.

The Naval aides, after taking up his request with Rear Adm. R.O. Canada, the hospital commander, came back with a turn-down.

Bishop explained patiently that he sought no confidential information, that he would ask no questions, that he merely wanted to look at the room where the late President's body was brought.

"I only want to see the autopsy room," he said. "Our commanding officer says you can't see it," replied a lieutenant firmly.

"Is it under security?" asked Bishop. "Why is the Navy keeping the room secret?"

The answer was still negative.

"Is it all right," asked the author, "if I look at the lobby on the way out?"

Note: Bishop found it easier to get in to see President Johnson, who for the first time discussed his recollections of the Kennedy assassination.

Potential Danger Underfoot

More than the old outdoor grill could be firing up American back yards one of these days if the hunch of a Washington geologist proves correct.

Commenting in the New York Times on the recent devastating rebirth of Arenal volcano in Costa Rica, Dr. William T. Pecora, director of the Geological Survey, suggests that the disaster could be repeated in the United States.

The Arenal eruption July 29 took 100 lives and set back the Costa Rican economy an estimated $50 million. The mountain had been dormant at least 500 years and was regarded as safely dead, a dangerous attitude to take toward any volcano in Pecora's opinion.

Of the numerous dormant volcanoes in the continental United States, he sees several in the Cascade Range—Mts. Lassen and Shasta in California and Rainier and St. Helens in Washington—as having definite "eruption potential" and suggests establishment now of a volcano watch just to be on the safe side.

Hawaii's Mauna Loa is the nation's most renowned active volcano and a major attraction in the island state. It is hardly the sort of tourist draw, however, that others are eager to see spring up on their own turf.

Counterattack Pays Off

When in suit, countersue.

That would seem to be the gist of a recent study by Jury Verdict Research, Inc., which found that the defendant in a personal injury lawsuit who cross-complains shows a distinct advantage over the defendant who merely denies he was negligent.

Analyzing the outcomes of 900 cases in which the defendant cross-sued the plaintiff—in effect, not only denied his negligence but blamed the plaintiff for his own injuries—the legal research group found that the defendant's chances of winning increased while the plaintiff's chances dropped substantially.

Surprisingly, however, in those cases where plaintiffs did win, their awards averaged well above normal, but when cross-complaining defendants won, their awards averaged somewhat below normal.

In other words, a good offense is not always the best defense in a court of law, but it's better than nothing.

King Solomon's temple stood about 400 years.

THE GLOBAL VIEW

Once-Friendly Reds Harry Kremlin on Czechs' Torture

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)

Despite their frantic appeals for "Communist unity," Russia's rulers find it increasingly difficult to justify their invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Revisionist Communists, like Yugoslavia's President Tito and Mao Tse-tung extremists, are accelerating the ideological war on the Kremlin.

The Italian Communist party, among others, has even brought charges against the Russians that they tortured Alexander Dubcek, the Czechoslovak reform leader, after the Red army occupied Prague.

The Italians have told the Soviet leaders that they will not take part in any international Communist conferences until the Russians have cleared themselves of the charges.

(As a direct result, the proposed summit meeting of the Soviet Union and 57 other Communist parties, scheduled for Nov. 25, has been indefinitely put off.)

The ugly facts of Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia are only beginning to emerge. For the Czechoslovaks they are reminder of Hitler's invasion 30 years ago.

Before Dubcek and his colleagues, kidnapped by the Russian secret police, were delivered to Moscow they had been accorded the treatment usually reserved by the Russian secret police for those to be executed.

According to East European diplomats, Dubcek was beaten and confined for two days to a mud hovel without food or toilet.

In Prague, his chauffeur, who at the moment of Dubcek's arrest tried to shield him from blows, was shot down.

Kriegel, the only Jewish member of the kidnapped Czechoslovak leaders, was tortured by Russian secret policemen who made obscene remarks as they beat him.

Dubcek was released only after the old and respected president of Czechoslovakia, Ludvik Svoboda, threatened suicide.

By then even the Kremlin rulers realized that no responsible Prague leader would agree to serve as their puppet and re-instated Dubcek as leader of the Czechoslovak Communist party.

When, after prolonged negotiations, Dubcek was finally ordered by the Russians to return to Prague, he and Svoboda refused to board the plane without Kriegel. Eventually, after negotiations that lasted four hours, the Russians gave in and Kriegel was carried to the plane on a stretcher.

Whenever, after their return to Prague, the Czechoslovak leaders were asked about their treatment at the hands of the Russians, they wept.

According to Czechoslovaks, Dubcek has been physically and emotionally destroyed. But he clings to his job as Communist party secretary. So far, the Russians have been unable to find a man to replace him. Even Gustav Husak, who is generally considered as pro-Russian, has refused to take Dubcek's job and act as Moscow's puppet.

It is Moscow's torture of respected Communists, even more than the invasion of Czechoslovakia, that is agitating the Red world. Communists see it as a return to the darkest days of Stalin's rule.

"It is precisely a return to Stalinism which has been characteristic of Soviet policies in recent years," said a prominent East European diplomat. "The Czechoslovak tragedy is just an exceptionally drastic sign of the trend."

Ironically, Western governments put their hopes in negotiations about disarmament and nuclear nonproliferation treaties. These have the effect of increasing the Russian leaders' prestige and giving them an entirely false appearance of trustworthy partners in negotiations.

But Communists who were loyal to Russia until the invasion of Czechoslovakia no longer have any illusions about Moscow's "peaceful coexistence."

As they see it, the very alternation of "relaxation" and periods of terror, as well as the simultaneous application of "soft" and "hard" policies characterized by the policies of Stalin, have been preserved by his uneasy successors.

South bid his hand with all the delicacy of a sledge hammer. He might have opened with a forcing two bid without straining himself but he chose the conservative bid of just one spade. Then, when North gave a two-diamond response South could find no way to show his great strength except by barging right into Blackwood.

We don't know what he would have done if North had shown two aces but when North could show only one South settled for the small slam in spades.

South's play was just as bang-bang as his bidding. He drew trumps, cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds to discard one club, ruffed a third diamond only to find that the queen had failed to appear. Then he ran off three hearts in order to get rid of another club.

All this had taken place with lightning speed but there was considerable cogitation after East followed low to the lead of a club from dummy. He might still be studying if West hadn't shown him both the ace and queen of clubs.

South could have saved himself all that useless study and also made his slam contract if he had just stopped to try to count to 12 at trick one. Then he would have played the deuce of spades from dummy and a high spade from his own hand.

This would leave the nine of spades as an extra entry for dummy's diamonds. At trick two he would have led a diamond to dummy's ace, then he would ruff a diamond, return to dummy with the nine of trumps, ruff another diamond, draw the last trump, cash three hearts to get rid of one club, discard two more on the king and jack of diamonds and make his slam.

Of course, he would have made a grand slam on his line of play if the queen of diamonds had fallen on the third diamond lead but South was in six and should have taken the most likely play to produce 12 tricks.

There's a New Nixon

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — "We will win with Nixon and the election will not be decided in the House of Representatives, and anyone who votes for Wallace is wasting a vote," were remarks made by Herb Klein, Manager of Communications for Richard Nixon, at a recent press conference.

"Is there really a new Nixon?" a reporter asked Mr. Klein. "Yes," he replied, "in a way there is. He is more relaxed, more knowledgeable, because he has had time to learn and reflect for the past eight years, all of which has helped him to meet the challenges of 1968."

"We recognize that Hubert Humphrey is our opponent and we are concentrating on beating him. We are trying to attract voters to Dick Nixon because he is a leader. We think Humphrey is a fuzzy campaigner and our problem is to find out what he means. Bright young people react to Nixon, and the warmth of the crowds everywhere is very encouraging. We think the impact of TV shorts is more effective than having Nixon appear on the three major public affairs television programs or debating the Vice President."

In discussing the Nixon slogans, the campaign spokesman said, "We think they are good. 'Nixon is the one' has had many amusing reactions; 'This time vote as if the world depended on it' is serious and thought provoking; and the third one 'We like Nixon now,' makes a hit."

Mr. Klein hedged on the question "How is Nixon going to end the Vietnam war?" by simply saying that the candidate does not wish to disturb the Paris negotiations.

Mr. Klein appeared confident but admitted that when a candidate has lost two elections he is never over-confident and there are "truth squads" working everywhere to set the Nixon record straight. He said Nixon opposed the filibuster on Justice Fortas but thinks the President should not have made the appointment.

He thinks Agnew is winning friends and does not believe some of his recent personal remarks will have any real consequence in the campaign. "I think Governor Agnew is strong" was Klein's statement.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

'Nervous Breakdown' An Inaccurate Term

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Although many persons still speak of having a nervous breakdown, this term is inaccurate because there is no breakdown of their nerve tissue. The term "nervous exhaustion" is equally misleading because, no matter how tired the victim feels, there is no exhaustion of his nervous system. Instead, there is a breakdown of his effectiveness, caused by emotional strife, although it may not always be readily recognized as such.

Failure to pass an examination, a financial reverse or marital difficulties may trigger the "breakdown" but the basic cause in each case is a severe blow to one's expectations and one's pride. The usual manifestations are loss of appetite, a feeling of depression, insomnia, loss of weight, irritability and jitters. None of these symptoms necessarily means a breakdown but, taken together and in the presence of one or more causative factors, a diagnosis can usually be made.

The common advice to take a vacation, get away from it all and give yourself a chance of scene may afford some temporary relief. But it will do no lasting good if you come back with the same old attitudes toward life and return to the situations that caused the trouble in the first place. Anyone who cannot work out a constructive solution with his problems unaided should seek professional advice from a psychiatrist or clinical psychologist.

Q — I have always had headaches. In the last year they have become worse. A neurologist says I have occipital neuralgia. He is giving me traction, muscle relaxers and Darvon. Would severing the nerve help? Would this cause numbness?

A — The occipital nerve is one of the branches coming from the spinal cord in the neck. Severing the nerve would relieve the pain but would leave the area supplied by this nerve numb.

Q — I am taking reducing pills prescribed by my doctor and also birth control pills. Can the combination of these two cause any harmful side effects, such as nausea?

A — Either drug alone may cause nausea. Taken together, this effect may be increased. Careful adjustment of the dosage often relieves this symptom.

Q — My doctor is giving me Adipex to curb my appetite. Is it habit-forming?

A — No.

Law and Justice

WASHINGTON, D.C. — United States veterans returning from Vietnam are going to expect that "all of our talk about law and order must be accompanied by law and justice," the President of the National Education Association said recently.

Mrs. Elizabeth D. Koonz, in a speech prepared for the National Convention of the American Legion in New Orleans, emphasized the need to lure back to the classroom the young men in military service who had not completed their schooling.

"These young men, as they return from the depths of hell, will not be satisfied to wait while education 'catches up,'" Mrs. Koonz declared, "They know that when this nation wants to change, it can change."

Mrs. Koonz, a Salisbury, North Carolina teacher, suggested that schools must become "the great equalizers that they were when the early immigrants came to this country." Pointing to the problems of Spanish-speaking youth and black students with limited vocabularies, she emphasized the need for "shoring up their education to make up for the disadvantages."

She asserted that many young people who have been "dropouts" were really forced out of our schools because the education was not relevant to their needs.

The teaching profession failed some students, Mrs. Koonz acknowledged, by sitting back and doing nothing. "... thinking too often, that our only duty was to teach in the schoolroom what was safe and platitudinous." Education was going "downhill" as the long-suffering teachers struggled to teach in crowded classes, with inadequate materials, and with the whole effort lacking adequate financial support.

"Teachers have become a power to be reckoned with in the country," Mrs. Koonz told the Legionnaires. "But they are admonished to use their power with responsibility."

No Holds Barred In Denmark

By BOB THOMAS
COPENHAGEN (AP) — American tourists shopping along Copenhagen's famed Walking Street get a jolt when they pass the Nygade-Cinema Theater. There in living color are displayed photographs usually seen on "feisty" post cards.

The movie, "Man's Sweetest Playthings," is advertised as "the most daring sex picture ever made" and customers are advised: "It will be banned in most countries... Play safe—see it during your stay in Copenhagen." Those who heed the admonition witness the kind of sex depiction that is seen in the United States only at men's stages.

Such films can be exhibited in Denmark without fear of reprisal as this country moves toward absolute freedom of expression in terms of sex.

A year ago, the Danish Parliament, with virtually no opposition, passed a law that virtually lifted all bans against written pornography. This fall the Parliament is expected to pass another bill doing away with the last vestige of movie censorship.

These moves are likely to be studied by other nations, especially the United States, where liberalization of centuries-old puritanical traditions has lately been hastened by a series of Supreme Court decisions.

Denmark has moved toward abolition of censorship after considerable study and public debate. A commission on criminal law reported to Parliament that it could find no proven link between pornography and corruption of sexual morals in general. One psychology professor told the commission:

"I do not think a long-time member of a nudist colony would be able to get excited by seeing the naked body of a woman." He hinted that the pornography market has reached the saturation point.

Censorship has been strongest in countries such as Ireland, Italy and the United States, where churches exercise a strong influence on moral issues. But in predominantly Lutheran Denmark, the church has little effect on the daily lives of the people. Lacking any clerical opposition, the anticensorship bill easily passed.

The basic reasoning was that it was insulting to tell adults what they cannot read. Restrictions were continued on the availability of pornography to children.

Oddly, there has never been any censorship of television in Denmark; the television officials themselves decide what should appear on the home screen. The only complaints about the programming appear to be a few letters to newspapers by mothers critical of the

Man's Dreams Can Help Him Stay Young

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't what you do that keeps you young in heart—it's what you dream of doing.

Life is a long flight from reality, and fantasy is as necessary to the mind's health as bread and meat are to bodily strength. Science has found through experimental testing that if people are kept from dreaming while asleep they tend to become neurotic.

The same thing is probably true of people when they are awake. Show me a man who doesn't spend a considerable portion of his time daydreaming and I'll show you a man who's heading for an ulcer or the butcherly net.

Our daily worries are prison bars; our daydreams are magic escapes into brief but enchanting freedom, bright journeys of refreshment for the rut-stale soul.

Probably the best of all vehicles for daydreaming is a swivel chair, preferably one by a window. The office convict can lean back, stare out the window with blank eyes as if he were pondering a business problem of weighty concern and—zoom!—he's off and miles away mentally.

Some people have lived so long in Dullsville they have trouble thinking of something interesting to daydream about. But the choice is limitless. Why

MoPac Women's Club In Monday Meeting

The Missouri Pacific Women's Club met Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the Little Theatre with 30 members present and one guest, Mrs. Marie Lotter.

Mrs. Jesse Gwinn, president, presided over the meeting. Mrs. O. C. Blankenship was in charge of the devotional reading from the 5th Chapter of Matthew, then a poem, "Prayer of Faith" closing with a prayer.

Games were played after which refreshments were served in keeping with Halloween. Members of the social committee for the evening were: Mrs. Pearl Newman, Mrs. William Alcorn, Mrs. Cleste Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Clara Miller and Mrs. Lillie Ferguson.

The next meeting will be the first Monday in November.

Instant Therapy for Slum Dwellers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The traditional idea of leisurely sessions of psychoanalysis may be all right for those who have the time and money. But something different is needed to deal with the mental ills found in city slums.

That something different is being applied in Los Angeles and is called "instant therapy."

This innovation in down-to-earth psychiatry has chalked up a steady growth since its conception seven years ago and its practitioners soon will break ground for a $3.7 million, seven-story center dedicated to its practice.

The center's founder, Dr. J. Alfred Cannon, University of California at Los Angeles psychiatrist, believes the old ways of treating mental and emotional ailments have little value in the slum areas of modern cities.

"The Freudian model of psychoanalysis stresses examination of the patient's past in order to understand his present illness," says Dr. Cannon. "Such treatment is lengthy and therefore expensive, and there aren't enough therapists to go around."

"This approach presumes a white, middle class background and education—you have to have it to be able to communicate with the psychoanalyst."

"We have learned to stress brief treatment. Since you may see your patient only once, you have to get into it fast—you've got one time to do your thing and that's it."

Dr. Cannon, 40, a tall, athletic Negro who took his medical degree at Columbia University, has become known as a busy promoter of antipoverty projects, especially since the Watts riots of 1965.

His concern with conditions in south-central Los Angeles dates back, however, to 1961, when he began working as a volunteer in free clinics.

"I noticed there were far too few mental health clinics in the inner city," he said in an interview. "Most of the institutions were outside the core, where people who needed help most couldn't reach them."

"Even the clinics that were inside the core were largely rejected. Poor people are not looking to be analyzed, they are looking for something to ease the pains of living."

"I had to find some way of reaching them, so I established a mental health center in 1961 in a small neighborhood church, the Church of Christian Fellowship, which has a membership of about 300. We had no money, and we depended on voluntary professional help. Our fees were as low as 25 cents—whatever they could pay."

"It worked. Our patient load grew and in 1966 we obtained a $900,000 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health. We moved into a furniture store vacated after the 1965 riots where we now treat more than 5,000 patients a year."

The $3.7 million center, funded equally by the state, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and private donations, will be an expansion of the furniture store facility and will bear the same name: Central City Community Mental Health Center.

Next door to the South Broadway mental health center is a small office with a placard: Community Service Center. It is one of the most successful ways

After moving to California, he was a high school letter man in four sports, setting seven track and field league records. As a UCLA senior, Rafer was student body president in 1959. He had first broken the ten-event world decathlon record four years earlier. He placed second at the 1956 Melbourne Olympics, then took the 1960 decathlon gold medal. In 1962, Rafer Johnson became West Coast Director of People to People, and has since appeared in movies and been a network sportscaster.

NEWSPAPERBOYS GET AHEAD

This year, International Newspaperboy Day coincides with the opening of the 1968 Summer Olympics in Mexico City. So this is a fitting time to give some thought to the things that make America—and Americans—great. Olympic decathlon champion Rafer Johnson puts it this way: "When I was carrying newspapers, I soon realized you've got to deliver in a way that's dependable. The job usually isn't easy, but no work worth doing is worth less than your best. America's newspaperboys are learning that it takes something extra to compete in today's world. I wish them success with this reminder: The winning formula is study, work, training to be ready."

yet found for catching patients. "To many of these people, 'mental health' means you're crazy," says the center's white administrator, Richard Sanville. "They won't come in the 'mental health' door but they will go to the service center."

"Many times we find that people who need economic aid also need mental or emotional treatment and we walk them through corridors to our consultation rooms."

"After all, what is mental health? If you're so poor you can't feed and clothe your kids, you're under a stress that often leads to mental illness. If a child is so hungry he can't pay attention in school, he falls behind and can become either a delinquent or a mental case."

Popup Catch Touches Off Wild Detroit Celebration

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Willie Horton stood in the Detroit dugout watching Tiger catcher Bill Freehan settle under the pop fly.

"It was the darndest thing," said Horton, dripping from champagne in the soggy but happy Detroit dressing room Thursday. "He looked like Santa Claus to me catching that ball."

When Freehan squeezed the last out popup clinching Detroit's 4-1 seventh game victory and the world championship it set off a riotous celebration and meant a difference of about $4,000 a man for the Tigers.

Two innings earlier, Norm Cash and Horton had singled with two out against Bob Gibson, posing Detroit's first threat in the scoreless duel between the Cardinal ace and Mickey Lolich.

Then Jim Northrup hit a drive to center field. Curt Flood started in on the ball, then turned and stumbled. When Flood finally ran it down, Northrup had a triple and the Tigers were leading 2-0.

"I knew when he slipped that he'd never catch the ball," said Horton. "I said to myself, 'Run, run, run,' and I was going so hard I almost missed the turn at third base."

Bill Freehan followed with a run-scoring double and now the Tigers were nine outs away from the title.

Lolich, working with just two days rest, got them easily, disturbed only by Mike Shannon's two-out homer in the ninth which cost him the shutout.

Cash, the Tigers' first baseman, described the feeling on the bench after Detroit had broken through against the seemingly invincible Gibson.

"We knew, with Mickey pitching so well, that if we could score, we'd beat him," said Cash. "Around the fifth or sixth inning we started getting good wood on the ball and we knew we'd break through. When we did, it was great."

Northrup, whose hit broke the tie, sympathized with Flood's problems on the ball.

"It was slippery out there from the rain the day before," the Tiger center fielder said.

"I knew I hit the ball well and that it had a chance to go for extra bases. When I wound up on third base and looked up at the scoreboard and saw those two runs up there, I knew we couldn't lose."

The turning point in the game may have been in the inning before the Tigers scored. Both Lou Brock and Curt Flood singled and both were picked off by Lolich.

Brock opened the Cardinal sixth with his record-tying 13th hit of the Series and, with a record eighth steal beckoning, he stepped off first farther and farther until Cash almost couldn't believe the size of his lead.

"I yelled for the ball," the Tiger first baseman explained. As Lolich threw, Brock took off and Cash fired to shortstop Mickey Stanley at second base for the putout.

The play was duplicated moments later when Flood singled and Lolich picked him off, too. "Mickey just guessed right on that one," said Cash.

The Tigers then broke through against Gibson and became only the fourth team in Series history to win the title after being down three games to one. The others were the 1903 Boston Red Sox in a nine-game Series and the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates and 1958 New York Yankees in seven-game sets. Detroit was an 8-1 underdog after dropping three of the first four.

Eighth Grade Tigers Miss Three Chances

Smith-Cotton's eighth grade Tigers missed three chances to score and lost a 7-0 decision to the Jefferson City eighth grade Jays at Jefferson City Thursday.

The Tigers, spotting the Capital City squad a 30-yard pass for a TD, marched to the one-yard line in the second quarter, only to fall one foot short of the goal line on fourth down.

Later in the same quarter the Tigers knocked at the door again from the Jay 7 yard line, but lost the ball on a fumble.

Mike Arnold, S-C fullback, appeared to have scored easily on a third-quarter kickoff return, but a Tiger clipping penalty nullified the effort.

"Line play and defensive tackling were much improved over the Marshall game," commented eighth grade coaches Paul Schwartz and Foster McGuire.

Smith-Cotton's Eighth grade A team will next play Marshall at Jennie Jaynes Stadium at 4:15 p.m. Oct. 23.

The eighth grade B team will oppose Clinton Oct. 15 at Clinton in a game starting at 7 p.m.

Political Developments Before Olympic Opening

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Controversies, ranging from shoes to South Africa and from politics to professionals, continued to plague the troubled 19th Olympic Games on the even of the opening ceremonies.

The Supreme Council for Sports in Africa demanded that South Africa be barred from competition in all sports throughout the world and Avery Brundage, 81-year-old Chicago millionaire who has ruled the International Olympic Committee with an iron hand for 16 years, won re-election as president of the group.

Those were among the political developments as the sacred Olympic flame, which has been transported by a vast relay of swimmers and runners, neared the Mexican capital.

It was scheduled to reach the pyramids of Teotihuacan tonight, before its final 34-mile relay to the 80,000-seat Olympic Stadium, near the University of Mexico, site last week's bloody rioting that left more than 50 dead.

For the first time ever a girl, Enriqueta Basilio Sotelo, will carry the flame on its last lap around the track, up the stadium steps and light the Olympic flame Saturday at the opening ceremonies.

And, for the first time ever, a woman will carry the flag and head the American delegation. She is Mrs. Janice York Romary, of Woodlog Hills, Calif., a fencer competing in her sixth Olympics.

The city remained calm, even light-hearted as the opening of the Games approached. The youth of Mexico welcomed the youth of the world with a gymnastics display in the main government square, Zocalo. Two helicopters hovered over the flower-decked square looking for trouble-makers. There were none.

But there were controversies. John Claude Gaanga, secretary general for the Supreme Council for Sports in Africa, demanded that South Africa be barred from all competition all over the world and said:

"We have asked the IOC to take up this question with the international federation in all sports. We want inter-racial competition inside South Africa."

There was no immediate response from the IOC, but the Russians backed the move.

It was for its racial policies—and the threatened boycott of several black African nations—that South Africa was barred from these Games, just one of many problems that have plagued the 1968 Olympics.

"I came here 81 and now I feel 91," Brundage said after coping with the myriad problems that faced him and turning back the challenge of the Comte Jean de Beaumont for the presidency.

In matters more athletic, the United States, which is expected to battle Russia for the top collection of medals among the 124 nations competing, got a couple of shots in the arm.

Debbie Meyer, the Sacramento, Calif., swimming sensation who is expected to win three events, tossed away the crutches she had been using to support a slightly injured left ankle and announced she was fine. And giant Randy Matson, slump-ridden of late, got off a 70-2½ shot put.

An American shoe salesman complained he was arrested and held four days by Mexican officials.

Art Simburg of San Francisco, a U.S. representative of a shoe firm in Germany which makes track shoes with 68 small brushes on the soles, said the Mexican officials "told me I was being held for not having a work permit. But I am convinced it was because they don't want my company's shoes promoted."

He is trying to get 3,000 pairs of regular track shoes into the Olympic Village, but Mexico is holding them at the airport.

Simburg's firm contends that the Mexican government has given another company exclusive rights to sell shoes at the Olympic Village.

Big Crowds Are Expected At Big 8 Weekend Games

By LEW FERGUSON

associated Press Sports Writer
More than 250,000 fans are expected Saturday for five Big Eight football games with the two largest crowds on hand at Lincoln, Neb., and the Dallas Cotton Bowl.

The biggest crowd ever to watch a football game in a Big Eight stadium—65,800-plus—will jam Memorial Stadium at Lincoln for the conference game matching the nation's sixth ranked Kansas and ninth ranked Nebraska.

And the Cotton Bowl at Dallas will be sold out once again as 75,000 watch Oklahoma and Texas in their annual "blood-letting."

A turnout of 52,000 is expected at Columbia, Mo., for the Colorado-Missouri Big Eight battle, while Oklahoma State and Houston are due to draw upwards of 30,000 into the Astrodome in Houston and Kansas State and Iowa State will attract some 30,000 for their conference test at Manhattan, Kan.

"It should be a good day financially for both schools," was Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney's best description of the Kansas-Cornhusker showdown at Lincoln. "We're in trouble because we don't have enough tickets."

The game is a classic match of Kansas' nation-leading offense against Nebraska's grudging defense, although the Jayhawks have a rugged defense and the Huskers are far from without offensive weapons.

Kansas Coach Pepper Rodgers insists "last year we slipped up on Nebraska; if we beat Nebraska this year, it won't be because we slipped up on them."

And Devaney counters, "Kansas just plain beat us last year."

The winner can lay claim to the inside track in the Big Eight race until Oklahoma, Colorado or Missouri rears up to challenge, as one or all three are certain to do.

Colorado took the early Big Eight lead with a 28-18 victory over stubborn Iowa State last Saturday. This week, the Buffaloes send the conference offensive leader, Bob Anderson, against Missouri's defense, which has been the best in the conference so far.

Iowa State and Kansas State both figure Saturday's game is one they can win—and both have surprised by winning two games in non-conference warring.

Oklahoma, cuffed so decisively by Notre Dame when the Sooners exposed their defensive losses from 1967, rebounded to defeat North Carolina State

Pro Grid Picks

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The first real big game of the pro football season matches the Los Angeles Rams and the Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee Sunday.

The unbeaten Rams still remember that 28-7 beating they took last December in Milwaukee and the twice beaten Packers have not forgotten the one they lost in the Coliseum 27-24 on a blocked punt.

Baltimore, Dallas and New York, the other perfect record clubs in the NFL, are favored to march right along to a fifth straight win. Oakland, only unbeaten team in the AFL, is expected to make it five in a row.

Last week's record was 9-4, with 7-1 in the NFL and 2-3 in the AFL, or 28-11 for the year. Let's try again with all games Sunday unless otherwise indicated:

NFL
Los Angeles 24, Green Bay 21—Rams rolling in high gear with airtight defense while Packers at 2-2 have been giving up more points than usual. Toughest game of the day, perhaps toughest of season.
Baltimore 27, San Francisco 17—Earl Morrall doing excellent job as sub for John Unitas with 10 TD passes in four wins. Colts have beaten 49ers 12 straight times and don't figure to stop now.

Detroit 21, Chicago 17—After Bill Ford lowered the boom on the Lions following last week's loss in Minnesota they should come out hungry for Bear meat. Bears have quarterback trouble but Gale Sayers will make it closer than last time.

Minnesota 28, New Orleans 17—A tricky one. These clubs haven't met in regular season play. Bill Brown leading league with eight touchdowns but Viking quarterbacks Joe Kapp and Gary Cuozzo a little beat up. King Hill picked up as last-minute sub. Saints' Bill Kilmer had three interceptions last week.

Dallas 34, Philadelphia 14—Cowboys did it in Philadelphia two weeks ago and should repeat, although Eagles will be tougher with Norm Snead at controls. Loss of Dan Reeves a blow to Dallas.

New York 37, Atlanta 14—Norm Van Brocklin's Falcons won't be able to handle Fran Tarkenton's explosive offense.

Washington 34, Pittsburgh 21—Steelers are going to beat somebody soon but not the Skins with Sonny Jurgensen at the controls.

Cleveland 24, St. Louis 21—Give edge to Browns on Bill Nelson over Jim Hart or Charlie Johnson.

AFL
Miami 21, Buffalo 14 (Saturday night)—Dolphins coming off upset of Oilers. Bills still having trouble with attack, bowing to Chiefs 18-7.

New York 31, Denver 14—Joe Namath and Co. back on beam last week after poor showing against Buffalo. Return of Steve Tensi helps Broncos, who edged Cincinnati last week.

Kansas City 24, Cincinnati 14—Chiefs have too much for expansion club.

Boston 21, Houston 20—Patriots home after 41-10 bombing by Oakland, could get well against Houston which floundered last week without Pete Beathard.

Oakland 31, San Diego 20—Raiders need one more win to tie Chargers' 1960-61 record of 15 straight. Oakland averaging 40 points a game.

Iowa State, Kansas State Meet In Power Challenge

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP)—Iowa State and Kansas State, two sophomore studded Big Eight Conference football teams meet here Saturday and a victory could give either side thoughts of challenging the powers that be for a first division finish.

Of the 44 starting offensive and defensive players 28 will be sophomores.

While both teams are young and soaking up experience, both have offensive weapons that can scare the most established of the Big Eight contenders.

Iowa State has John Warder, a senior quarterback who ranks third in the conference in total offense with 668 yards.

Kansas State has junior Mack Herron, who totaled 267 yards in the Wildcats' 34-19 victory over tough Virginia Tech.

"Whoever's sophomores make the fewest mistakes will win," K-State Coach Vince Gibson predicted.

Then Gibson paid this tribute to new Cyclone Coach Johnny Majors: "Johnny is doing an unbelievable job. They are so much better than I ever thought they could be. Offensively, they can really move the ball on you. They've got so much quickness."

It's the Big Eight opener for K-State before an expected 3,000 while Iowa State bowed 28-18 to Colorado last week. But the Cyclones rallied from a 21-0 deficit to throw a man-sized scare into the Buffaloes.

Purdue, Ohio State To Collide Saturday

By MIKE RECHT

Associated Press Sports Writer
Purdue and Ohio State, the Big 2 of the Big Ten, collide in college football's No. 1 game Saturday.

Purdue, ranked first in the country and a strong choice in the conference, rates a two touchdown favorite, but expects plenty of trouble from the unbeaten and fourth-ranked Buckeyes.

Second-ranked Southern California has its hands full against host Stanford, No. 18, and sixth-ranked Kansas travels to Lincoln, Neb., for a meeting with No. 9 Nebraska.

Penn State, No. 3, must face UCLA on the road and Tennessee No. 10, travels to Georgia Tech. Notre Dame, No. 5, and Florida, No. 7, are expected to have the easiest time as the Irish host Northwestern and the Gators entertain Tulane.

Eighth-ranked Louisiana State has a king size problem tonight of stopping Miami of Florida in Miami. In other games tonight, West Virginia plays VMI at Roanoke, Va., and Wyoming opposes Brigham Young in Provo, Utah.

Purdue, in the top number spotlight for the first time in many years, will rely as usual on Mike Phipps to do the passing, Bob Dillingham the catching and All-American Leroy Keyes to do both, along with plenty of running.

The Buckeyes have seen them all before, in a 41-6 pasting by Purdue last year, but Ohio State now has won six straight, including two this season, and obviously has been pointing for the Boilermakers.

"Ohio State has improved more than any team we have seen this year," Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf said, who hopes his players will be as revved up for the Buckeyes as they were against Notre Dame.

Ohio State, rearranging its offense from Woody Hayes' usual ground grinding, will present a diversified attack that includes passing. Sophomore Rex Kern does the throwing and halfback John Brockington and split end Bruce Jankowski the catching.

Southern Cal will turn O.J. Simpson loose at Stanford and he might have to be at his best against the high-scoring and unbeaten Indians.

'Air Raid' Warning In Louisville

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Air raid warnings have been posted in Louisville Saturday day night for the Tulsa-Louisville Missouri Valley Conference football game.

The Cardinal-Hurricane battles of recent years have always been passing battles, and Saturday's seventh game in the series is expected to follow true to form. Tulsa has won five of the six previous games.

Memphis State defeated defending Missouri Valley champion North Texas State, 30-12, last week to take the early conference lead. However, the winner of the Tulsa - Louisville game will tie Memphis for the top rung.

Non-conference games involving Valley teams Saturday night have Tampa at Cincinnati, Northern Michigan at North Texas, Colorado State at Wichita and West Texas State at Memphis.

The principals in the Tulsa-Louisville game will be quarterbacks Mike Stripling and Wally Oylar, who between them have thrown an average of over 30 passes per game this fall.

Stripling has completed 38 of 71 for 446 yards and three touchdowns for Tulsa. Oylar has hit 25 of 54 for 325 yards and three scores for Louisville.

Cincinnati will again rely largely on Greg Cook, the Missouri Valley's top passer thus far in 1968. Cook, described by Texas coach T. J. King as "a passer as good as any you'll find in college football," has hit on 55 of 111 passes for 771 yards and four touchdowns. The Bearcats are 1-1-1.

North Texas, hoping to rebound from the loss to Memphis, takes on Northern Michigan, which has run up four straight victories over northern schools.

Memphis State hopes its defense is as alert this week as last week in its rout of North Texas. The Tigers have to cope with Eugene "Mercury" Morris who has gained 884 yards on 105 carries and scored 11 touchdowns in leading West Texas to a 4-0 record.

Chiefs Steal Way to Second Place in NFL

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Chiefs have literally stolen their way into second place in the Western Division of the American Football League, and they need to keep their fingers sticky against upstart Cincinnati here Sunday afternoon.

The Chiefs, 4-1, have intercepted 14 passes in five games. Typically, two of the interceptions in last week's 18-7 victory over Buffalo set up field goals by Jan Stenerud.

Stenerud booted four field goals against the Bills, raising his league-leading scoring total to 61 points. Ironically, the Norwegian missed his first extra point in 59 attempts.

Kansas City also leads the AFL in rushing defense, having allowed opponents an average of only 83.6 yards a game and has given up the fewest touchdowns, six.

Ann Landers

Old Mamas Require Some Consolation

Dear Ann Landers: When I read your recent plug for Late Motherhood my nervous cough which had not bothered me for years suddenly reappeared. My mother was 43 when I was born so I think I can speak with first-hand knowledge. Here's how it looks from here. We "late dividends," as you so lovingly call us, usually lose our fathers when we are in our teens. They die of old age. We never know a grandparent. They usually die before we are born. Our widowed mother does not associate with the mothers of our friends because they are separated by approximately 20 years. If we want to marry we must either take mother in or move in with her. She is too old to leave alone. (Guilt!) Please, Ann, let this subject alone. Children are for parents in their 20's. People in the 40's should have grandchildren. — HORSE'S MOUTH

Dear Mouth: When a woman 41 writes to say she is in her sixth month and feeling rotten about it I am not going to tell her to go jump off a cliff. You've made some good points and I don't deny it, but it's amazing how many women have written to say their late baby was the one who gave them the greatest pleasure.

Dear Ann Landers: Every morning at 7:15 our neighbor who works in the same office with my husband drops by to give my husband a lift. This has been going on for 18 months. I know the routine by heart. He says, "Just give me coffee." Then he winds up reaching for the muffins, the rolls, the berries, the cereal — everything in sight. When we have bacon and eggs he says, "My, that smells good. Just one egg for me, please."

The office is 12 short blocks from here and a nice big bus runs by our house every 20 minutes. It goes straight past the office.

This clown has a strong, healthy wife who likes to sleep in the morning. I am getting so I hate the sight of him. My husband says he is no extra work and, besides, the ride in the morning makes it a fair deal for everyone. What do you say? — SHORT ORDER COOK

Dear Cook: Tell your husband the walk to work in the morning will add years to his life and the novelty of not having company for breakfast will add zest to yours. When the weather is bad he could make an exception, but a daily boarder at dawn is like forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband's sister was married to a wonderful man. They had three attractive children. The oldest is now eight. Two years ago my sister-in-law's "indiscretions" became so widely known that her husband divorced her. The man she was running with promptly moved into her home. She says she would marry him but she doesn't want to give up the alimony which is "beautiful." If she didn't have the children I'd look the other way, but under the circumstances I think she is a tramp. What would you call her? — VERITAS

Dear Ver: She didn't call me so I don't have to call her. The name is as good as any, however, under the circumstances. So, if you want to call her a tramp, be my guest.

Painting Sells For A Record Price

NEW YORK (AP) — It took only five minutes of bidding at the Parke-Bernet Galleries Wednesday night to set a world auction record of $1,550,000 for an Impressionist painting. That price was paid by the Norton Simon Foundation of Fullerton, Calif., for "Le Pont des Arts, Paris," an early work of Pierre Auguste Renoir, painted about 100 years ago. Simon, a Los Angeles industrialist, was not present. The bidding was done in his behalf by Stephen Hahn, a New York dealer, started at $250,000. Nearly all succeeding bids were in jumps of $50,000. The previous auction record for an Impressionist work was $1,411,200 paid by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York, at Christie's in London last December for Claude Monet's "La Terrasse a Sainte Adresse."

Remembers

NEW YORK (AP) — A woman who says she'll be 116 years old next month recalls "it wasn't too much different from being a slave" when she first came North for a job. "The whites still had all the say-so." Mrs. Alice Peyton Brown, known as Mother Brown in Harlem, where she resides, told an interviewer she was born in a log cabin 12 miles from Lexington, Va., in 1852. She was freed after the war, and later, when in her 20s, came to New York to do domestic work. "The hell began when we reached New York," she recalled. "Life was not peaches and cream. All I knew was work."

No New Effort To Nominate Chief Justice

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson pulled back Thursday from any new effort now to replace Earl Warren as chief justice of the United States.

It was left unclear, however, whether Johnson might make another attempt before his term expires Jan. 20.

Warren submitted a notice of retirement last June to take effect at the President's pleasure. Johnson nominated Associate Justice Abe Fortas to head the court. At the same time he submitted the name of Homer Thornberry, as old friend who is now a U. S. Court of Appeals judge in Texas, to fill the vacancy that would be created by Fortas's elations.

The Fortas nomination was blocked in the Senate by a filibuster and Johnson withdrew it, at Fortas's request.

Later, with no opening to fill, he also pulled back the Thornberry nomination.

In a statement Thursday Johnson recalled that he has said "I do not believe that I can find a person who is better qualified to succeed Chief Justice Warren in the nation's highest judicial post than Mr. Justice Fortas.

"I deeply regret that the Senate filibuster prevented the Senate from voting on the nomination of Justice Fortas. Had the Senate been permitted to vote, I am confident that both Justice Fortas and Judge Thornberry would have been confirmed. Their qualifications are indisputable.

"In ordinary times I would feel it my duty now to send another name to the Senate for this high office. I shall not do so.

"These are not ordinary times. We are threatened by an emotionalism, partisanship, and prejudice that compel us to use great care if we are to avoid injury to our constitutional system."

Johnson noted Warren's indication of willingness to serve until his successor qualifies.

"Under these circumstances the foundations of government would be better served by the present chief justice remaining until emotionalism subsides, reason and fairness prevail," Johnson said.

Bothwell Explosion Scene

Shown above is some of the debris shaken loose by an explosion in the boiler room of Bothwell Hospital about 9 a.m. Thursday. Hospital officials said that the blast was caused by the collection of gas in one of the boilers which was then presumably ignited by an electrical spark. No patients were evacuated from the building, however, a silent alarm went out to the East Sedalia Fire Company. One man working in the area at the time received flash burns from the explosion.

Explosion At Hospital Leaves One Injured, All Patients Unharmd

A gas explosion injured one man and rocked the kitchen and boiler room level of Bothwell Hospital at 9 a.m. Thursday during a routine check of the furnace room.

Raymond D. McKenzie, 29, 1613 South Grand, an employee in the maintenance department of the hospital, was injured when the explosion occurred. He was making a routine check of the area when the explosion occurred.

Don Feeback, Bothwell Hospital Administrator said that McKenzie had sustained only minor flash burns.

Feeback said that he "was unable to assess the reasons for the explosion."

Personnel in the kitchen area, which adjoins the boiler room, said that "it sounded like a whopping clap of thunder."

Ray Jiedel, Bothwell Hospital purchasing agent, said that "emergency procedures were immediately instituted when the explosion occurred."

The East Sedalia fire company made a silent run to the scene — which, according to Feeback, would prevent alarming patients unduly.

Two large boiler units were put out of commission, and the cast iron doors on one of them was shattered. Soot and insulation was blown throughout the boiler room area.

According to Red Miller, Chief engineer for the hospital, the boiler that exploded was installed in 1925 and was converted to gas from coal in 1958.

Miller also stated that new burners were installed inside the boiler jackets in 1958. In Miller's opinion, a malfunction in the electrical safety control circuit touched off gas which had been gathering in the boiler unit.

The Missouri Public Service Company checked the boiler room and the units which feed the hospital, and said, according to Miller, that things "seemed to be secure."

No patients were removed from their rooms, but the 146 bed hospital was put on full alert in case of fire resulting from the blast.

Feeback said that "no patients were jeopardized at any time, but it was necessary for the staff to be made aware of the situation."

Several pieces of the cast iron door were hurled throughout the boiler room as a result of the explosion. There was apparently no damage from fire.

Feeback described the damaged boiler units as being "fairly old, but in good repair." According to hospital officials and firemen, there was no structural damage to the building, but the explosion was heard throughout most of the hospital.

Plaster and insulation were blown away from the surrounding pipes, making it necessary to wash down the boiler room and to carry out the heavier pieces in a wheel barrow.

The hospital has 40 fire alarms which correspond to the various sections of the building.

North Vietnam's Units On Verge Of Starvation

SAIGON (AP) — Some North Vietnamese units that once threatened Saigon are on the verge of starvation after huge food caches were seized in allied sweeps, U.S. officers reported Thursday.

Adding to the enemy difficulties, North Vietnamese bases near the Cambodian border have been pounded by U.S. B52 high altitude bombers and enough weapons have been captured since Jan. 1 to equip four divisions, the U.S. Command reported.

The command added that in the past two weeks nearly 100 tons of cached rice have been found.

U.S. officers said that while some North Vietnamese units are still well fed some, such as the Dong Ngai Regiment, are hard hit. The Dong Ngai Regiment has been operating around Lai Khe, 45 miles northwest of Saigon but now it is scattered looking for food, they reported.

"These guys (the Dong Ngai Regiment) are starving to death," one U.S. officer said. "Most of the bodies of Dong Ngai soldiers we killed in battle show some signs of malnutrition. The prisoners of war from that regiment say they are out looking for rice."

The eight-engine B52s were out in force again Thursday attacking enemy base camps around Saigon, including those around Lai Khe.

Since June 1, after a new enemy offensive was blunted, the B52s have dropped 125,000 tons of explosives on base camps, infiltration corridors and other targets surrounding the capital.

"We're running out of good targets," one source said.

Tullis-Hall Awarded Contract by Base

Tullis-Hall Dairy Co., Sedalia, was awarded a $51,654 contract by Whiteman AFB for the purchase of dairy products from Sept. 25, 1968, through Sept. 24, 1969.

A $200,289 contract for the same purpose was awarded to Adams Dairy Co., Blue Springs, the Air Force reported. The contract covers the period from Sept. 25, 1968, through Sept. 24, 1969.

This strained relationship—even if it is only temporary—interrupts a close association between the two men that dates back to 1949, when Johnson first took his seat as a senator from Texas.

It was Russell who organized the vote that made Johnson the Democratic whip.

President Ceases Ties With Senator Russell

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the twilight of his White House tenure, President Johnson has cut his communication lines with one of his oldest friends and advisers, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga.

It has been more than three months since they had a difference of opinion over a matter Russell doesn't even discuss with friends. The usual weekly invitations for the Georgia senator to drop in for a chat with the President have not been forthcoming.

Except to confirm that there was a disagreement resolved in

Astronauts Wait With Confidence

Weather A Question For Friday Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Weather was "a bit of a question mark," but three confident Apollo 7 astronauts Thursday were given a "go" to blast off Friday on an 11-day space flight that could steer America back on course to the moon.

Even as the countdown clock began for an 11 a.m. liftoff, however, project officials admitted there was "a distinct possibility" the flight by veteran astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. and his two space rookie copilots, Donn F. Eisele and Walter Cunningham, will not go the full 11 days.

"We expect the possibility — and we think it's a distinct possibility — to shorten it, but we are planning for the full duration," said William C. Schneider, Apollo 7 mission director for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

"Our most important learning for this flight is to determine how the spacecraft lasts," added flight director Glynn Lunney in a news conference. "We can gain just about every systems objective in the first three or four days," if an equipment problem requires the mission to be terminated early, he added.

"Weather is a little bit of a question mark at the moment," as far as the launch is concerned, said Dr. Wernher von Braun, director of NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala., which developed Saturn-Apollo rockets.

"The predictions are good, but there will be some shower activity in the morning. And should the shower situation indicate that the wind prior to launch may increase, it may become necessary for the crew to leave the spacecraft in which case we would scrub for 24

Debate Hurdle Remains

Efforts To Get Equal Time Bill Passed Fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts to remove the legal hurdles to free television-radio debates between the major presidential candidates collapsed Thursday in the face of a Republican sit-out that blocked Senate action.

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., was unable to muster a quorum to take up the House-passed legislation and said under the circumstances he had no choice except to bow to the GOP opposition.

And even after that, with the Republican sit-out lifted, it took nearly two hours to muster a bare quorum of 51-17 Republicans and 34 Democrats. Most of the 49 other senators were out of town.

Mansfield then moved that action on the equal time bill be postponed indefinitely, thus killing it. The Senate turned to other legislation in a drive toward adjournment of this session of Congress.

Thieu Denies Coup Reports

SAIGON (AP) — President Nguyen Van Thieu went on radio and television Thursday night and denied reports of a thwarted coup against his one-year-old elected government. He blamed the reports on "rumors" spread by "Communists and their henchmen."

Thieu made no mention of the fact that high-level government sources and spokesmen—although not from his office—had told newsmen that there had been a coup attempt Tuesday night.

These sources said there had been arrests in connection with the coup and that more persons would be taken into custody. Thieu said there had been no arrests.

Throughout Wednesday and Thursday in Saigon, official and off-the-record comment from government officials on whether there had been a coup attempt was in direct contradiction. There did not appear to be any political affiliations among the various spokesmen to explain the contradictions, however.

One official, a spokesman for the government press office, said at midmorning: "You can say there was an attempted coup but that it failed."

The same office said in mid-afternoon, quoting from a presidential communique, that the reports of a coup were "false rumors spread by the Communists and uninformed people."

Until the presidential statement, a high-level government official continued to talk with newsmen about an attempted coup. The official, not in Thieu's office, has knowledge of the highest levels of the government.

Many observers regarded the government confusion as an indication of basic uneasiness at the highest levels.

The alert for South Viet Nam's armed forces continued Thursday night.

Some actions by Thieu himself may have inadvertently contributed to the coup reports.

Earlier this week, he sent to all Vietnamese military commanders a cable that said there were reports of a possible coup.

Highway Bid Call Includes Area Work

The Missouri State Highway Commission Thursday called for bids on highway construction and improvement projects totalling $15,000,000 and covering about 260 miles of the state's roads.

Included were projects in the following counties:

Jackson - Johnson: U. S. Route 50 — 20.4 miles of grading, culverts, shouldering and both 22 and 24-foot wide asphaltic concrete resurfacing in several separated sections from Lee's Summit east and southeast to west of Route 58 in Johnson County.

Damden: U.S. Route 54—3.6 miles widening to 24 feet and resurfacing with asphaltic concrete pavement from the Miller County line south to the Grand Glaize Bridge.

Eagleton Pays Visit To Sedalia

The usefulness of Industrial Development bonds and their particular value to Sedalia was a main topic of talks by Lt. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton, Democratic candidate for U.S. Senator from Missouri, in his visit to Sedalia Thursday.

The candidate arrived in Sedalia about 11:30 a.m. at the airport and was met by members of the Eagleton for Senator committee. At noon he was a guest at the regular Kiwanis meeting at the Bothwell Hotel. He was introduced by J. R. Fritz.

Eagleton stated that the existence of Industrial Development Bonds in recent years had meant significant additional industrial development in the state, including two recent developments in Sedalia, the expansion of the Rival Manufacturing Co. plant and the construction of a new home for Town & Country Shoes.

As a background for his talk Eagleton noted that earlier this year the Internal Revenue Service changed its ruling on tax exemption status for such bonds without the consent of Congress, which meant that under the attempted ruling the usefulness of these bonds would have been virtually eliminated.

"After many requests to

EDITORIALS

Roughhouse at the Park

Considerable research has been going on around our newspaper office in preparation for the Sedalia Democrat's Centennial edition which will be published Sunday, Oct. 20.

In the process of tracking down information about newspaper and town history, the microfilm reader has been almost running a hot box and long distance and local telephone calls to the McFarlands at Crown Hill have kept some of the wires hot.

We'll probably wind up having a special feature story concerning the enigmas and frustrations of patient research.

What we have in mind here is to mention the fact that examining reels upon reels of Sedalia's newspapers as far back as 97 years ago, reveals the community had its rootin', tootin' juvenile problems. Some of the shenanigans going on around here today are mild in comparison but that doesn't mean excusing excesses in 1968.

This brings us to comment on an incident at Liberty Park Convention Hall last Friday night which has disturbed some students. They ask: "What in the world is our generation of teenagers coming to. One-fourth of the kids who attended this dance didn't have anything better to do than go around picking a fight. Their actions ruin the dance for others and reflect on the reputation of the boys, also their dates. This isn't the first time for such improper behavior, and probably not the last unless these dances have to be stopped. This brings up the problem of where to go on weekends, and this is where the big "thanks" come in for those who have started the teen clubs in Sedalia.

The dance last Friday started out as a blast until half way through when some kids tried to pick fights that consisted of beating, kicking and throwing each other around, and using vulgar vocabulary to show their ignorance. Even the law enforcement authorities are challenged to stop such spectacles. If there are to be anymore dances at the Park then more sponsorship, supervision and stricter rules will have to be provided."

What about it adults?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Humphrey Faces Truman Handicap

By DREW PEARSON

DENVER — Exactly 20 years ago this October, Harry Truman was meandering through the state of Colorado on his whistle-stop campaign.

It was a discouraging trip. The Rocky Mountains stood snow-capped and aloof as if withholding judgment on the peppy little President of the United States who harangued the crowds at railroad stations. The crowds which listened were small and equally aloof. The aspens, less aloof and golden in their autumn splendor, seemed to bow deferentially as the train passed. The weather was balmy, the sun friendly. But that was about the only smiling aspect of Mr. Truman's bid for another term.

His campaign had started in Pittsburgh, with only 400 of the faithful down at the railroad station. Only 1,000 turned out at Gary, Ind., on a Friday night. On the streets of Chicago he was booed, and again in the Chicago Stadium when he addressed a meeting of the Scandinavian Society.

Omaha was a disaster. Only 1,200 people were in the Ak-Sar-Ben Stadium, which holds 12,000. In Kansas City, his home town, he was booed when he marched with his old Battery D Unit. In Kearney, Neb., on a Sunday morning almost no one came out to see him after church. In Casper, Wyo., there were a few. In Idaho he spoke to more sheep than people. Tacoma was a bust. Seattle was a yawn.

I was with Truman on part of the trip. By the time we reached Salt Lake City things had picked up a bit. We snaked through the gorges of the Rockies, stopping at Grand Junction, Glenwood Springs, Eagle, Clearcreek — only a handful of the curious and the friendly crowded around the train as the little man with the double-breasted suit came out on the rear platform to give the reasons why he was going to continue to be President of the United States.

They were respectful but skeptical. They did not see how Harry Truman, running against Tom Dewey plus the conservative party of South Carolina's Gov. Strom Thurmond and the progressive party of ex-Vice President Henry Wallace, could possibly make it.

Yet he did.

—Can HHH Repeat?—

And the big question today is: Can Hubert Humphrey, also running behind, also facing a cool and confident Republican plus a right wing rabble-rouser, repeat Harry Truman's political miracle? The answer is that Humphrey faces one factor in his favor and three against him.

Favorable is the fact that a lot of people still have not made up their minds. There is a floating vote which can swing the election on Nov. 5. The three unfavorable factors are:

1. Humphrey is not President as was Truman. He cannot make policy on his own. He is tied to the policies of Lyndon Johnson, some of them highly unpopular.

2. Humphrey is running against a cautious, top-running opponent who is determined not to make any of the mistakes Tom Dewey made in 1948 or that he, Richard Nixon, made in 1960.

3. The third party candidate today is one of the shrewdest rabble-rousers to sway a crowd since Huey Long spread his benign dictatorship over Louisiana with the appeal "Every man a king."

George Wallace has some of the innate shrewdness of Huey Long plus some of the tactics of Adolf Hitler. Long and Hitler both capitalized on economic frustration. Wallace is capitalizing on racial and social frustration.

Long came into power in the deep south when

WASHINGTON NOTEBOOK

Know History? What About U.S. 'President' Atchison?

By NOEL GROVE
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—Consider for a moment the host of candidates for the presidency this year. Discounting the pig placed in nomination by the yuppies in Chicago, they number about 10.

Since many of these must have known their chances of winning were only slightly better than the yippee porker, it may be assumed that for some the race is as much the attraction as the prize.

For those, the ultimate envy must be for the man who, by some theories, became president of the United States without campaigning a day, spending a dime, or ruffling any feelings within either party. And afterwards, President Atchison served in a period so relaxed and trouble-free that he almost slept through his whole term.

President Atchison?

The "one more" president theory is not universally accepted by all students of American political history, but as theory, it does have its historical basis. According to the theory, Sen. David Rice Atchison of Missouri was president for one day—beginning about 1 p.m. Sunday, March 4, 1849.

The terms of President James Polk and his vice president George M. Dallas, were to end at that time. But the incoming president, Zachary Taylor, was not going to be inaugurated until midday of Monday, March 5, inauguration ceremonies being delayed one day so they wouldn't fall on a Sunday.

That left 24 hours when the country would be without a president. According to the Constitution, the next in line would be the presiding officer of the Senate. Dallas, Polk's VP, had resigned that position, and Atchison had been named temporary presiding officer of the Senate in his place March 2.

So at 1 p.m., March 4, 1849, the nation was without a president, and Atchison was next in line. He was never actually sworn in. But the question around the "other president" theory is whether by simply being next in line in those leaderless hours, he did, in fact, succeed to the office.

Atchison himself held no celebration. He was sound asleep when he theoretically became president of the United States, displaying a calmness that makes all other new presidents look like little old ladies with twisted hankies by comparison.

He might have slept all day, having spent a hard night at the Senate the night before, had not some personal friends come to wake and congratulate him.

"In order to do everything in proper style, I appointed a full cabinet," he recalled later, going along with the gag, "and it was said that my administration was the most successful and popular one ever known, there not being a removal or an appointment during my whole term."

Atchison's triumph would have been even sweeter had it gained political legitimacy. Actually, it remains merely a footnote of trivia in the history of American presidents, says White House curator Jim Ketchum.

Hardly worth redesignating Lyndon Johnson the 38th president of the United States instead of 37th, and likewise with all the others back down the line through Zachary Taylor.

But what a whale of a cocktail party conversation bit it must have made for a man named Atchison!

South's jump to four hearts announced a minimum opening bid with very good trumps. In other words, it said, "Partner, my hand calls for play in hearts. If you have enough high cards to go along with my good trumps, we have a slam; otherwise we belong in game only."

North might have simply jumped to the heart slam but North decided to make some effort to get to seven. Hence his bids of four and five no-trump. South had told his story and settled for the small slam.

South looked over dummy carefully and counted his winners. There were just 11 of them. He could get a 12th easily by taking the double finesse in clubs or he could get the 12th by setting up dummy's fifth spade. The odds that West would hold at least one of the club honors were 3 to 1 in South's favor; the odds that spades would divide 4-3 only about 8-to-5, so that if only one play could be used, it was up to South to try the club finesse.

On the other hand there was a way for South to try both plays. He started by winning the diamond in dummy. Then he entered his hand with the queen of trumps. Next came a spade to the ace and the ruff of a spade. Back to dummy with the king of trumps and the ruff of another low spade.

When both opponents followed to that spade lead, South drew the last trump and showed his hand, conceding a club.

It was just as well that he gave himself that extra chance. The spades did break but both club honors were wrong.

Basis for Confidence

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Senator Edmund Muskie, Democrat vice presidential candidate, said before the National Press Club on October 1st that "The real issue in the campaign is to decide if we shall stop building walls of differences among the American people, whether or not we can live together in complete trust and harmony. These are questions which cannot be answered at the polls, but must be answered in the minds and hearts of the American people and they must decide a basis upon which a real confidence can be built."

In discussing Vice President Humphrey's statement on television that if he became President he would stop the bombing, Senator Muskie said: "The question will be, what will we gain by stopping the bombing — we tried 90 per cent of it once and did not gain very much, but we might take the risk again if circumstances were right. The Vice President's suggestion was to stop at the D.M.Z., which is not a part of North Vietnam. Now that he has committed himself, the Senator believes that Mr. Humphrey "will continue to repeat his position." The Senator believes that nothing is gained by trying to explain the differences between LBJ and HHH, because one is the President and the other is the Vice President — and a presidential candidate.

On the phenomenon of candidate Wallace, candidate Muskie stated that he is "escalating seriously" and that he is probing all the sore spots in our American life and getting a response. He doesn't give any answers to law and order and he insinuates that the good life which has been built up among certain ethnic groups is being threatened and that he, Wallace, can save them. The Senator added, "A candidate for the presidency should be more than an agitator. Instead of riding a surf board, a candidate should be in command of his own boat. ... He is a threat to our country."

Speaking of handling the hecklers, the Senator commented, "There are two kinds — the hard core trouble makers, which we can't do much about, and the earnest young people who want a share in our public life and who want to be constructive. The constructive youngsters are like the guy who puts a coin in a machine and no chocolate bar comes out. They should be made to feel welcome, not on our terms but on terms mutually agreed upon. That is why I invite them to express themselves."

Senator Muskie spoke with great admiration of his colleague Senator Eugene McCarthy. "We believe that he should not be pressured and that he will make up his own mind in good time."

The final question asked the Senator was, "If the election should go to the House and the decision would be in favor of you for Vice President with Nixon as President, would you serve as his Vice President?" Without hesitation he replied, "I would be the people's Vice President, not Nixon's."

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Pregnancy Chances Rare After Age 50

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — How soon after her baby is born can a mother become pregnant again? What other drug can a woman take beside birth control pills to keep from getting pregnant?

A — If you do not nurse your baby, menstruation may return in about eight weeks. If you nurse him, it may return in about six months, even though you continue the breast feeding. This figure, however, is subject to wide variation and is usually longer in women who have had more than one child.

Although there are several kinds of contraceptive pills, they are all a form of female hormone. Other means of birth control include intrauterine devices, condoms, diaphragm pessaries and chemical foams.

Q — What is the oldest a woman has ever become pregnant?

A — It is rare to become pregnant after age 50. A search of the medical literature from 1850 on revealed only 26 authenticated cases. In one series of 50,000 births, only two women were over 45. A woman of any age will not become pregnant if she has not menstruated for over a year.

Q — What is the earliest a doctor can diagnose pregnancy by a laboratory test?

A — In one of the newer procedures, a woman's urine is tested with sheep's red blood cells that have been treated with an extract of human placenta. In some cases the test may indicate pregnancy as early as four days after a skipped menstrual period. The test takes only two hours to run. Another test, said to be very reliable and similar in nature, is read after only three minutes.

Q — My doctor terminated my pregnancy because he suspected it to be ectopic. But after the operation I was told I had a corpus luteum cyst. What caused it? Why must there be no further pregnancies?

A — A corpus luteum forms each month at the site of ovulation. It usually becomes absorbed and causes no trouble. But occasionally, for no known reason, it may increase in size and form a cyst. This, too, usually causes no trouble. But, if it ruptures and bleeds into the abdominal cavity, it causes all the symptoms of an ectopic pregnancy. This in itself would not be a reason to avoid future pregnancy.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I did not have to file an estimated tax declaration this year because enough was taken out of my paycheck to cover my taxes. Does the new surtax change that and should I file an estimated declaration now?

A — In July employers started withholding income taxes at a higher rate to keep taxpayers on a current, pay-as-you-go basis. The additional amounts withheld should approximate the final tax liability for most taxpayers.

If you did not file an estimated tax declaration for 1968 because withholding was expected to amount to 80 percent or more of your tax liability for the year, you may want to review your tax situation. It is possible that the tax surcharge, which can increase your tax by 7½ percent, will make you liable to a penalty for underpayment of estimated taxes.

Productivity

Only Australia, Zealand and Canada are within 10 to 20 per cent of matching U.S. productivity in terms of output per worker. U.S. industrial production is more than double that of any European nation and more than four times that of the Soviet Union.

As of Jan. 1, 1968, Japan had 129,000 buses registered, an increase of 14,700 bus registrations from the preceding year.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Lined Dresser Drawers
Look Neater, Cleaner

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. D. W. asked why one must line dresser drawers. Of course, this is not necessary but I always do it because the drawers stay clean longer. When a drawer is lined, dirt collects in the liner and can be easily discarded. Fresh paper, or whatever you choose for lining, keeps the drawers neat and clean and can also be decorative. To me, not lining one's dresser drawers is like not putting a cover on a mattress.—JAN

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have an oversupply of linen and also some cotton and nylon napkins and would appreciate some suggestions as to ways to utilize them. Some have never been used.—MARY

DEAR POLLY—When casseroles are to be frozen and stored, I line the baking dish or pan with foil, fill with the mixture to be frozen and press the foil firmly over the mixture to seal it airtight. When it is solidly frozen, foil-wrapped block can be removed from the pan. This saves storage space in the freezer as the "blocks" stack nicely, and pans or casserole dishes are not tied up for long periods of time. When ready to use the frozen casserole you can easily remove the foil and slip the block into the original pan to heat. Some may only require unwrapping the foil from the top and placing the foil-wrapped block on a cookie sheet.—SUE

DEAR POLLY—After cleaning the toilet bowl with your preferred cleanser, use a few drops of nicely scented dishwashing liquid. Stir around with the brush a few times and leave the pleasantly scented suds for awhile. You will be delighted with the results.—ELLA T.

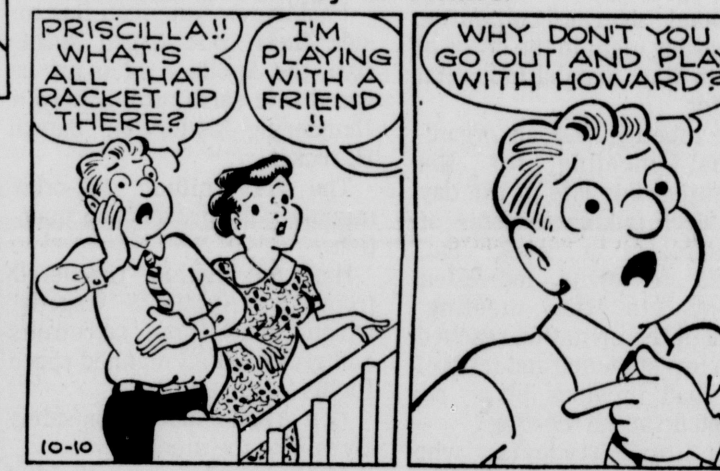

DEAR POLLY—If Mrs. L. F.'s four knitted stoles are all the same length they may be crocheted or sewed together with either matching or contrasting yarn and fringe added in the colors of the stole around the edges for a lovely afghan.—MRS. C. F. H.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have a knit top with a nylon zipper in the back that buckles up. I have tried pulling it and ironing it down but nothing seems to work. How can I flatten this zipper?—JUDY

There are some people who are curious by nature. Perhaps it was those individuals the superintendent of documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, had in mind when he published the monthly catalog of government publications.

It consists of 155 pages of fine print, costs 50 cents, and includes about 1,415 individual entries — not counting duplications made to explain the original entry.

Uncle Sam's publishers have everybody in mind. The printing office, for example, can give you a nicely detailed account of abdominal gas volume at high altitude and ground level — if you happen to be interested.

Hall Gives Talk At Lions Club

William H. Hall, director of the Sedalia Industrial Development Department, spoke to the Sedalia Lions Club, Wednesday noon, and commented on the loss of two industries due to the inadequate airport facilities. "We are hoping the people of Sedalia, at the Nov. 5 election, will reconsider and give the necessary vote to carry the airport bond issue," he said.

Hall told of letters he received from many Sedalia boys and girls of school age in which they reviewed Sedalia's situation. In nearly every letter they said Sedalia needs industry, needs a better airport, and the big percentage suggested a new senior high school. "Their letters are most interesting and have good messages, which the people of Sedalia should give deep consideration," Hall said.

He also pointed out the decisions to be made by the people on Nov. 5. "It is the time when we vote for our President, our state and local officials. It is a time when every voter should cast his vote as he feels. There will be other proposals to be voted upon, including the question of retaining our Supreme Court Justices, then the local charter for the city and 13 Commissioners to draft the charter should it pass. The proposal of a new county jail, which is badly needed. All these things are up to the voter for their decision," he said.

Don Buller, president, presided and announced a Lions Club Board meeting is scheduled for Thursday night.

Guest at the meeting was Jerry Watson of Herman Wallace.

Students Express Interest

An unusually high interest by high school students in the upcoming airport bond issue was evidenced at a meeting of the bond steering committee Wednesday night in the office of William Hall, Sedalia Industrial Director.

The meeting was an organizational meeting for the committee, but late in the day Hall, after talking to some of the students a week ago, decided to invite interested students to the meeting.

Although the invitation reached only a few students, and most of them had previous plans, six showed up at the meeting.

The six students who attended indicated there were many others interested in passing the bond issue and that they would organize other students to help out during the campaign. These six were made members of the committee and were informed that other students interested could also become members.

Some 20 adult members of the committee also attended and campaign plans were made.

It was brought out at the meeting that the levy for this $190,000 issue will be 12 cents per $100 assessed city property valuation. This means that a home assessed at $3,000, or a $10,000 home, would receive only an additional annual tax of $3.60.

It was also brought out that Sedalia has a good chance of being declared a satellite airport for International Airport in Kansas City if the improvements are approved. This would mean that if Ozark Airlines initiates air service to Sedalia, it would mean a direct line from Sedalia to the new airport, with no stopover at Kansas City Municipal Airport as would be required with smaller air line service.

hours," he said.

Otherwise, "everything is right on the money and all tests of subsystems clicked off like a charm" in preparation for lift-off, the rocket expert said.

"I found the crew in a highly confident frame of mind," said Von Braun. "They are eager to go and are happy to hear that all our systems are go both in the launch vehicle and spacecraft."

Packing an American flag inside their cone-shaped spaceship, the Apollo 7 pilots are to speed into earth orbit aboard a thundering 224-foot-tall Saturn 1B rocket.

The $145 million, 163-orbit mission will answer two questions:

Has the nation recovered from the Apollo 1 tragedy, which killed three astronauts and grounded all manned space flights for 20 months?

Can Apollo spaceships safely fly men to the moon?

If the mission goes the full 4 1/2-million miles, Navy Capt. Schirra, Air Force Maj. Eisele and civilian astronaut Cunningham will have logged a combined total of 780 man hours in space, compared to only 534 man hours accumulated by all Soviet cosmonauts to date.

Success also could clear the way for the next astronaut team, Apollo 8, to fly 10 orbits around the moon at Christmas.

The 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 super rocket for that mission, scheduled to blast off about Dec. 20, rolled to its launch pad Wednesday.

"No one can say today whether Apollo 8 will go around the moon," Von Braun said. "We'd all be eager, including the astronauts, to go all out next time. But whether it is prudent remains to be seen."

"Apollo 7 could be a flawless flight," he added, "but maybe something like the environmental control system would leave something to be desired for a long flight to the moon. We might want to try another earth orbit flight, where we can bring the men home quickly, to assure ourselves of all the systems. Once you commit yourself toward the moon there is no instant recall."

The 300-man Apollo 7 launch team Thursday loaded liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen aboard the spaceship's three power-producing fuel cells which feed electricity to the craft's components.

Mitzi, Like A Bath In Champagne

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent
HOLLYWOOD (NEA)

Chatting with Mitzi Gaynor is something like taking a bath in champagne — effervescence in the extreme.

She talked about:

Dumb days — "Those days when you do everything wrong. On dumb days, I can't even dance well."

Her mother — "She just came back from Europe, and she said she wanted to bring Portugal home with her."

Her special — "It's on NBC in October, and it's a one-woman show with lots of the characters I do on it."

People's minds — "People's minds play tricks on them. I gave a party once and it was so hot I just served grapefruit juice and vodka. Only I didn't have any vodka. So I just served the juice. Two people got drunk and one had a hangover the next morning."

Ghosts — "My house ghost, Mrs. Walker, is back. I was reading 'Rosemary's Baby' in bed and I got scared and that makes me hungry so I went down to the kitchen to make a sandwich. We have one of those call boxes — the numbers pop up — and I looked up and Number 4 had popped up. It has never popped up before. Mrs. Walker did it."

Dana Andrews has fully recovered from his aad fall, except that he has lost his senses of taste and smell ... Doctors expect they will return but, meanwhile, it's a decided inconvenience ... Sean Connery, here doing "The Molly Maguires," avidly watched the political conventions on television ... Somebody suggested that there is nothing like them in England ... "Oh, we have the same thing," Connery said, "but we call it theater."

Word got out that CBS was looking for a beat-up old car to play a beat-up old car on the new Bob Denver series, The Good Guys. So every beat-up old car owner upped his price.

They found the one they wanted — a '24 Lincoln — rusting in a field. The owner demanded — and got — $4,000 for it.

The Disney studio brought young Pamela Toll back from New York to scream a little.

Pamela is a little gumdrop of a girl who makes her movie debut in Disney's "Rascal." There was only one problem — she had one scene where she was supposed to scream, and she couldn't do it.

She is a veteran of two years with the NBC detergent opera, The Doctors, so you'd think she'd be an experienced screamer. But when the chips were down, all she could do was squeak and squawk a bit. So they brought her back for two days, to loop her scream.

"I, Pamela Toll," she says, "never scream in real life, no matter how frightened I get. And I guess that's why I couldn't scream on camera, but I've been practicing."

Pamela is 22 and married (to one of the managers of Sardi's in New York), but so young looking you have to fight back the urge to ask her what she wants to be when she grows up.

Sondra Gains Fame

Her name is Sondra Locke. She is waiting for a golded part. Sondra is 21, and her work in "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter" has been universally acclaimed. She is pretty and talented, has blonde hair and big blue eyes and she knows how to act.

A peculiar tail and head movement in a species of wild duck may show its relationship to a species more clearly than feather patterns.
